DEMPSEY AND FIRPO FIGHTING FIT AT RINGSIDE

Spanish Rebels Seize Foreign Ship

MEMBERS OF CABINET RESIGN

Parliament Is Dissolved as Military Dictatorship Assumes Control

BULLETIN

PARIS, Sept. 14.—The military insurrection has spread through all Spain, according to couriers arriving here from the French-Spanish frontier this morning.

King Alfonso has accepted a military dictatorship headed by General Primo Rivera, General Aguilira, General Mavalcanti, General Anido, General Naro, General Dadan and General Berceguer.

So far there have been no disorders.

BULLETIN

BARCELONA, Sept. 14.—Revolutionary troops were co-operating with the police today to preserve order.

Marquis Destella outlined the program of the revolutionists as follows: 1—Purification of Spanish politics; 2—Stricter enforcement of laws; 3—Reduction of government expenses; 4—Protection for workingmen; 5—Impartial investigation of the Spanish defeat in Morocco.

BULLETIN

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Spanish revolutionaries at Barcelona have seized a foreign ship, said a dispatch from that city today. It did not reveal the nationality of the vessel.

According to the correspondent of L'Intransigeant the revolutionists are conducting close surveillance of all foreigners.

MADRID, Sept. 14.—The Spanish cabinet, headed by Premier Alhucemas, resigned to King Alfonso today. General Rivera, head of the military forces, was asked by the king to form a new ministry. Alfonso conferred with civil and military leaders.

It was reported that General Rivera asked for a mixed civil and

Dan Loveless Dying Result of Auto Crash

Pieces of a stripped roadster are reported scattered all over the Eagle Rock-Pasadena highway about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon following its collision with another automobile not far from the Eagle Rock.

Dan Loveless of 627 Royal Drive, Eagle Rock, who was its passenger, was brought to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. He was conscious a large part of the night, and it is believed he may have sustained a fractured skull.

Irish Bouquets and Election Feature Kirks' Visit in Erin

FROM "The Land of the Shamrock" comes another travel letter from W. B. Kirk. Mr. Kirk's letter is dated Dublin, Irish Free State, August 14, and in introduction he tells a Scotch joke and then sketches their stay in Glasgow and Edinburgh and then hurries on to "The Land of Erin."

W. B. KIRK

He writes, "The Scotchman, like the Jew, can best tell a joke on himself and this is the latest as given me by a Scotchman, 'Why has the Scotchman such a large sense of humor? Because it is a gift.'

"We spent Friday quietly in Glasgow resting from our somewhat strenuous trips, and that evening bade good-bye to the land of Scott, Burns, Bruce and Wallace, for a little trip to the 'Emerald Isle.' We felt that such a trip as ours would be incomplete without seeing something of Ireland. A 'Burns and Laird' steamer carried us slowly down the Clyde, past all the shipping and shipyards of this great port. Anyone who has seen it knows that it is the best evidence in the world that we need have no fear of the possibilities of our own harbor. The hand of man makes a harbor. The Clyde is almost as narrow as a canal, so that it is hard to see how the big Canadian liners get into it. And it must be about as far from its mouth to its end as it is from Los Angeles to San Pedro.

Ships Rotting at Piers

Many useless and idle ships are lying at dock here and we saw scores of mine sweepers and other war craft rotting at the piers in the River Ness, the Tay, the Fourth and other places.

"Glasgow and Edinburgh are full of poverty and slums, We saw plenty of it in the heart of Edinburgh close to John Knox's old house. The conditions of labor are bad all over Britain and extreme wretchedness exists almost in a stone's throw of wealthy, luxurious abodes.

"Belfast is called a duplicate of Glasgow on a smaller scale, and Dublin of Edinburgh. There is a similarity in each case, but Belfast has none of the hustle and appearance of a busy city that Glasgow has, and the troubles through which she has passed have left their marks on Ireland.

Finds Better Food

"Business conditions are not what they used to be. We stopped at the so-called best hotel in Belfast, which has no elevators, its office on the second floor, no running water, at 18 shillings apiece, with meals. We have found that food in Britain is a little more to our liking than that in Scandinavia.

"They serve you less and charge more, but their coffee is a little better and they don't try to feed you so much salt dried and spiced meats, and their meal hours are better. We found a dandy place for lunch in Glasgow. It is the 'Ca'doro.' Look it up when you go there. They serve nice, fresh vegetables and 'fruit-

'GERTIE'S GARTER' DRAWS BIG FINE

Egan and Cast Pay Well for Presenting 'Obscene' Performance

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—"Getting Gertie's Garter," Avery Hopwood's "sprightly farce of more fun," as Producer Frank Egan called it, went on the rocks of Los Angeles civic virtue today, when Justice Pope held that the play, which had been running eleven weeks here, was obscene, indecent and lewd. He assessed fines with jail sentences as alternatives against Egan, his stage manager, William Burres, and members of the cast.

Egan, Burres and each of the actors and actresses in the play were fined $50, with the alternative of passing twenty-five days in jail. This was the maximum sentence which might be imposed under the city ordinance. Heavier penalties had been named by Judge Pope, but these were reduced when the city prosecutor stated the case had been prosecuted under a city ordinance, and not the state law.

Attorneys for the defense gave notice of appeal.

S. A. Weddell, Age 72, Escapes Death's Call

S. A. Weddell of 712 West California avenue, who was 72 last month, narrowly escaped death about 5:30 yesterday afternoon under the wheels of a Pacific Electric car.

Mr. Weddell was leaving a northbound car at California avenue. He was knocked down and received severe cuts in the back of his head. The lower part of his body was swung under the car and both of his legs probably would have been crushed under the wheels if his feet had not struck the trucks.

After first aid had been administered at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, Mr. Weddell was taken to his home.

THIEF RANSACKS HOME

A burglar early last night entered both sides of the duplex at 1248-1250 South Orange street and ransacked each home in what is believed to have been a search for money and jewelry. Mrs. H. M. Corl reports the theft of two watches while J. L. Stafford states that nothing seems to have been taken.

W. E. HEWITT RETURNS

W. E. Hewitt, vice president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, is home from Vancouver, B. C., where he was called by the serious illness of his father, T. C. Hewitt. He states that his father underwent an operation and is still in a serious condition.

HARD WINTER AHEAD OF MIDWEST

Great Lakes Region Gripped by Cold Spell, Say Chicago Reports

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14.—The Pittsburgh - Brooklyn National league game was postponed here today on account of cold weather. A double-header will be played tomorrow.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—The Great Lakes region was preparing for a severe winter, following the first snowfall of the season in Illinois.

Snow was reported during the night at Polo, Dixon, Sterling and other Rock river towns in Ogle, Lee and Whiteside counties.

There was a light frost in Fox river and Skokie valleys, according to the weather bureau.

It is the earliest autumn in the recollection of old residents, probably due to disturbed terrestial conditions accompanying the eclipse.

Promise Warmer Weather

The weather bureau held out hope for warmer weather over the week-end, following a probable frost tonight. Some damage to late crops may result from the cold spell.

Harvest is in full swing in the corn belt, and with the "frost on the pumpkin" many are planning to join the annual trek to California, land of sunshine and flowers.

The prospects of unusual weather, as indications overnight indicate, have caused highway work to cease; coal supplies to be dwindled today and a rush for the railway ticket offices, it is reported by passenger traffic officials.

LOCAL JAPANESE AID HOME FOLKS

Red Cross Makes Final Drive for Glendale Quota of Relief Fund

A total of $102.50 was raised yesterday among local Japanese families, by the Glendale chapter of the American Red Cross, in addition to the $4000 Japanese merchants of Glendale and Burbank have subscribed as a fund to buy rice for their stricken countrymen, reports Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, chairman of the official drive, stating that in her efforts yesterday she was assisted by Mrs. Y. Goto and Mrs. N. Nakayama, two Japanese women of this city, and by Mrs. Andrew Findlay.

They are working in the Japanese sections of the city again today, hoping to further swell the total amount subscribed, which now stands at $2,287.82, with the quota set at $3,432.

Drive for Quota

The Chamber of Commerce has appointed committees to visit all local organizations, a number of which have already donated liberally. It is believed that the end of the week will see the quota fully subscribed, Mrs. Bartlett believes.

The following are among recent subscribers to the fund:

$100—Rotary club, Exchange club.

$25—Glendale Avenue Branch, Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank.

$10—Gisela B. Sanders, Frank P. Black, Dan Campbell.

$5—R. R. Davis, C. L. Gregg.

The Japanese sent over $100,000 for relief at the time of the San Francisco earthquake and fire disaster, in 1906, it is pointed out in the current issue of the California Christian Advocate.

FRANTIC CHINESE FEAR FOR LIVES

Repetition of Japan Horror to Overwhelm Country, Is Prediction of Priest

SHANGHAI, Sept. 14.—Frightened Chinese in this city and vicinity are preparing to leave for the various holy mountains of China following the prediction of an old Taoist priest of one of the numerous temples on the summit and winding trail of Mount Omei, sacred mountain, that the same disaster that befell Japan will be visited upon China on September 26 and 27.

"There will be general destruction of the Chinese coast on September 26 and 27," the priest warned followers of Taoism, "earthquakes, fires, typhoons and tidal waves will destroy coastal cities, preceded by five days of the blackest darkness.

"Grain will be plentiful, but there will be none to eat it; cities, but none to live in them. Shanghai will be submerged."

Taoists temples are crowded with worshippers offering sacrifices and praying for deliverance from the predicted catastrophe.

The same priest is said to have predicted the fall of the Manchu dynasty.

Worry Over Family Cause of Suicide

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Brooding over the Tokio disaster and fearful that his family had been killed there, Tokunoskus Inouiye, an accountant for the firm of Mitsui & Company, Japanese exporters, jumped to his death from the fifteenth floor of No. 65 Broadway today.

Hundreds of pedestrians in the street saw Inouiye's death plunge.

Kobe Will Become Silk Trade Center

KOBE, Sept. 14.—This city will replace the former great port of Yokohama, as the leading export city of the Japanese Empire in its silk industry, according to plans formulated today by the Chambers of Commerce of Osaka, Kobe and Kyoto.

These three cities have appropriated $25,000 for the removal of the silk inspection office from Yokohama to Kobe. It was point-

Italy Promises To Quit Corfu on September 27

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy in his note to the allied ambassadorial council in session here has promised to begin evacuation of Corfu on September 27 "in the interests of European peace," it was revealed today when the text of the document was made known.

Corfu was occupied in retaliation for the killing of General Tellini and four other Italians on Greek soil. The situation in the Balkans is tense, fears being expressed that guerilla warfare may at any time inflame the border countries to renewing their age old conflicts.

CENSOR NEWS IN KLAN RIDDEN CITY

Gov. Walton of Oklahoma Orders Muskogee Cyclops To Resign Post

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Sept. 14.—Censorship of news, Governor J. C. Walton's latest step in his campaign to "clean up" Oklahoma, was in effect today in Tulsa and was threatened here.

"We have a man in the Tulsa Tribune to see that everything that goes into that paper is censored and we contemplate doing the same to the Muskogee Phoenix, if it becomes necessary," Dr. A. E. Davenport, state health commissioner, announced, speaking for the governor."

With the installation of censorship for the press the resignation within twenty-four hours of W. R. Sampson, grand exalted cyclops of Muskogee Klan No. 3, was demanded by the governor through Davenport. Failure to comply with the demand will mean order for extension of martial law to Muskogee, he said.

Clean Up in Tulsa Now Under Way

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 14.—"The most drastic martial law orders ever known in any state," were promised Tulsa by Governor J. C.

NIGHT HIGH HERE OPENS SEPT. 24

A. L. Ferguson Will Supervise Evening Classes, Board Decides

Glendale night high school will open Monday, September 24, according to a decision reached last night by the Board of Trustees of Glendale Union High School.

A. L. Ferguson, vice-principal of the high school, was re-appointed principal of the night school. He states that announcement of classes will be made shortly.

Glendale Union High school's enrollment, according to the report made by Principal George U. Moyse, now totals 1643 pupils. Of this number, 870 are girls and 773 boys. New pupils above the ninth grade number 218 or 116 girls and 102 boys. Pupils coming from outside the district total 259 or 146 girls and 113 boys.

POLO GROUNDS, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Scores of persons were injured this afternoon in a wild riot when a mob of several thousand charged a single ticket wagon selling bleacher seats for the Dempsey-Firpo bout tonight.

For International News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Modern civilization prepared today to lick its collective chops in anticipation of being served a dainty morsel such as might have delighted a Cossack and caused the Emperor Nero to fiddle again.

The occasion in question is the heavyweight championship meeting tonight between Jack Dempsey, as vindicative in action as a jungle tiger, and every inch a champion, and Luis Angel Firpo, a human grizzly capable of all the savagery of his primitive forebearers.

Firpo Biggest Man

Firpo will enter the ring with many physical advantages over the champion.

This was revealed this afternoon when the two fighters were weighed at the office of the New York State Boxing commission.

Dempsey weighed 192½ pounds; Firpo scaled 216½ pounds.

Dempsey measured exactly 6 feet in height and had a reach of 77 inches. Firpo was measured at 6 ft. 2 in. and also had a reach of 77 inches.

Dempsey will get his first look at the meteoric South American contended in the ring tonight. The pair were supposed to have come together in the commission's office, but they failed to do so when Firpo arrived late for the weighing in.

Jack Physically Perfect

Doctors Lindenbaum, Hyman, McCaffey and Walker examined the pugilists.

After Dempsey's examination, Dr. Walker, the regular commission physician, pronounced the Woman Still Hampered By Bathing Costume

For many years what is called "mixed bathing" was not considered lawful or even proper at many English summer resorts. Finally, Margate, which is one of those nearest Ostend, broke down tradition, and now most of the resorts on the south coast are exercised as to what is proper for a woman to wear when going into the sea. Two schools have recently sprung up—one championing what is called the "neck to knee" outfit, and the other the "next to nothing." The British health minister has decreed that every bather wear an "opaque costume sufficient to prevent exposure."

A floor polishing mop has been invented that can be connected to a vacuum cleaner to take care of the dust it gathers.

COMMENT That's All

Two Human Antagonists Man's Greatest Goal Intelligence—Its Test Success Beguiles All

By Gil A. Cowan

THIS evening the populace of Glendale will be more or less interested in the result of a fight in which two human antagonists will endeavor to knock each other "for a row of dog houses" at the Polo Grounds in New York.

The writer of this column served an apprenticeship "covering" mauling matches in several states and we are glad that California has limited the ring bouts to four-round boxing exhibitions, such as are seen under the auspices of the American Legion or some athletic club.

Prize fighting is a sport in which the public takes great interest. Therefore, newspapers must report such, the same as other events. Yet we cannot see why an Argentine and a son of Utah desire to crash each other into kingdom come for even a half million dollars.

The Glendale Evening News, however, is fortunate in being able to present the account of this affair in the manner most approved by fight fans, who are a multitude.

The International News Service leased wire is being held late into the day by The Evening News in order that announcers may give the waiting crowd the latest bulletins, as well as the fight round by round.

It is the same service being rendered metropolitan dailies throughout the nation, linked directly to the telegrapher's key in New York. The transmission of the news is but a matter of seconds.

All of which is more wonderful to the writer than the $100,000 purse which Luis Angel Firpo will receive, or the vastly greater amount going to the present heavyweight champion of the world for his appearance in the ring.

For, when all is said and done, money means little in this old world of ours. Achievement of something worth while is the greater goal than brutal mastery of another man.

The Hollywood Citizen recently commented on the subject of Service in a most effective manner, the editorial being as follows:

B. C. Forbes, financial editor, contends that inefficiency and profiteering on the part of business men is just as objectionable as inefficiency and a disposition to loaf on the job on the part of workingmen.

To bring about the day when all will be able to enjoy a goodly proportion of life's blessings, contends Forbes, business men as well as all laboring men must dedicate themselves to the task of giving the fullest measure of service for the earnings received.

In other words, this is a world where the many will profit when the many seek conscientiously to serve.

The few may always profit through the following of methods that are unfair, but all may profit only when the great majority are dedicated to the highest principles of service.

What one gains while serving to the full measure of his possibilities he gains while others also profit.

This is not a new theory to be advanced by Forbes or other economists or great industrialists.

It is the theory upon which Henry Ford in twenty years' time has built up the greatest individual business enterprise in the world.

It is the theory which the Rotarians everywhere are seeking to establish, that "he profits most who serves best."

It is a theory toward which we are all probably traveling though slower than many of us would like.

Intelligence tests are given young people entering colleges and universities now. Thomas Edison and other industrial leaders are inclined to disagree with the content of these questionnaires.

The University of California is asking one question which appeared most humorous to the writer of this column, yet we would be willing to gamble that 50 per cent of the answers will be incorrect. The stumblingblock offered students, as it is reported, is this:

"How many feet have Koreans?"

Do you know?

One sure thing, folks, intelligence tests have nothing to do with making money!

Neither do intelligent people alone succeed. Success is based on peculiar psychological phenomena. No set rules, no acid test will prove anything we have noted in reading the life stories of some of America's most successful men.

Clever men, wise men, good men, all fall dumb before the idol of success, while other human equations tread safely over the path where only blind fortune would wander.

It is a strange world, made stranger still by the seemingly divine desire that men know not why or where or when until they arrive.

DARING TIRE THEFT

Mrs. C. G. Shiffer of 809 East Elk street about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, informed the Glendale police that a spare tire had been removed from her car while it was parked across the street from the city hall, in plain view of the police station!

SOCIAL EVENTS

Home Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McNary, 361 West Doran street, was the scene of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mavis June McNary, and Alden C. Hayse of this city, Wednesday night, September 12, 1923, at 8 o'clock. The Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated.

The setting for the nuptials was a floral arch of white carnations and ferns artistically arranged in one end of the living room.

The bride wore a white georgette gown with a corsage of white satin flowers. She was given in marriage by her father, Charles E. McNary. There were no attendants and only immediate relatives and a few friends were present.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and after congratulations were extended the bride and groom, refreshments were served. At this time Mrs. Hayse cut her wedding cake.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Hayse left on a motor trip and upon their return will make their home in Glendale.

For the Mercers

Hotel Gray was the scene of an anniversary celebration Tuesday night honoring Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mercer, whose tenth wedding anniversary occurred on that day. They were happily surprised by thirty-five relatives and friends.

The evening was spent in music and playing games. An entertaining feature was a mock wedding. Readings were given by the Misses Beth Morrish and Vera Mercer. Late in the evening luncheon was served on a table, whose centerpiece was a large cake bearing the dates 1913-1923.

Mr. and Mrs. Mercer received many useful gifts in tin and aluminum.

Guests from out of town were all relatives and were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Turner, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jewell, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Cook of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. John Mercer and son, Richard Mrs. Winslow, Fay Winslow, Mr. Brewer, Mrs. W. J. Morrish and daughter Beth and Helen of Glendale.

Birthday Party

Isabel Hendry, daughter of Mrs M. Hendry of 3375 Glen Feliz boulevard, celebrated her fifteenth birthday last night with a delightful informal party at her mother's home.

She invited over thirty guests, and they enjoyed the evening with games and music. Many attractive prizes were awarded.

A color scheme of pink and green was used by Mrs. Hendry in decorating the birthday table Carnations and asters were the flowers used, and the birthday cake was white with pink and green candles.

One member of the party was Isabel's uncle, Gale Hendry, of Los Angeles.

Holiday Bazaar

Congregational church women meeting all day yesterday at the church set the dates for their annual holiday bazaar as Thursday and Friday, December 6 and 7. Until that time they will busy themselves preparing things for sale.

At the meeting yesterday afternoon following the lunch hour, Mrs. H. Montague Porter, president, was in charge of the meeting. There were forty women present.

They will meet next Thursday at the church from 10 till 3 o'clock to sew for the Red Cross, and all Glendale women are invited to attend.

Club Year Book

Mrs. Warren Roberts, treasurer of the Glendale Music club, is completing plans on the club year book, and is urging that all Glendalians desiring to join the club and have their names appear in the year book either as regular or patron members, should communicate with her at home at Glendale 772-W.

She will supervise additional work on compiling the book next Monday, and states that the latest possible date to make other additions will be the middle of next week.

Needlework Club

Mrs. J. D. Root of 425 West Lomita avenue was hostess yesterday to the members of the Navajo Needlework club at luncheon.

The rooms of the Root home were decorated with artistic arrangements of red dahlias and fern.

After luncheon the afternoon was devoted to needlework.

Those present were Mrs. M. C. Fuller, Mrs. Frank Overton, Mrs. S. A. Koontz, Mrs. E. O. Carlisle and the hostess, Mrs. J. D. Root.

Receives Guild

The St. Mark's Guild is to meet every Thursday with Mrs. M. M. Kemp of 204 East Chestnut, until the addition to the church building is completed, it was decided yesterday at the all day meeting of the organization in the guild hall.

The time before and after luncheon was devoted to sewing for the holiday bazaar.

The blessing a calloused hand extends carries sincerity.

Witness Eclipse

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Houston and their daughters, Dorothy and Elizabeth of 440 West Myrtle street were among those witnessing the recent eclipse at Catalina Island.

The Houston party were located on a hillside 200 feet above Avalon and Mrs. Houston states that while a heavy fog obscured the sun most of the time, the sight was nevertheless inspiring. The beauty of the totality of the eclipse was not clearly visible, but she says the orange light that came over the ocean when the light broke after the eclipse was beautiful.

An interesting feature she tells of is about a flock of blackbirds that went to roost in the trees when the darkness came on and were very much disconcerted when the light appeared in a few minutes' time and they were awakened from their rest. They flew in droves from the trees and out over the landscape.

According to the Houstons, there were 7000 or more people on the island and when they returned home late Tuesday afternoon the boats were filled to capacity.

Dinner Honoree

Mrs. Helen W. Sawyer of 432 North Jackson street, entertained recently at an artistically appointed dinner party complimenting Miss Dorothy Walsh of 328 North Kenwood street, and John Wiggers, whose wedding on September 22, will be an important social event.

The rooms of the Sawyer home were effectively decorated in a pink and white color scheme, carried out in the floral decorations and table appointments.

Covers were laid for the guests of honor, Miss Dorothy Walsh and John Wiggers and Miss Walsh's mother, Miss Ethel Walsh, Mrs. Frankie A. Webb, H. S. Webb of Glendale and Mr. and Mrs. Blakemore of Los Angeles, and the hostess, Mrs. Helen W. Sawyer.

Honor Visitors

Mesdames C. M. Sparr and Ada Harter of 232 South Jackson street, received informally yesterday afternoon complimentary to their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry of Wheeling, West Virginia.

A group of relatives were invited to spend the afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Henry, who have now departed for a trip through the Canadian Rockies before returning home.

The company included Mrs. S. B. Morse of La Jolla; Mrs. Grand George, Mrs. Barbara East, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. East, Mrs. Robert Allen, Mrs. J. M. Boynton, Mrs. Charles Carroll, of Glendale, and the Henrys and the hostesses.

Quaint Clock Draws Big Crowds in Prague

For centuries, the people of Prague, the beautiful capital city of Bohemia, have played a game called "Watching the Clock". A few minutes before every hour they gather in knots before the quaint medieval clock in the tower of the old city hall. Sober citizens gather there, housewives on the way to market, students with books under their arms, young ladies of Prague in fashionable clothes, peasants and peasant women from the country roundabout, some wearing the bright-hued costumes of rural Bohemia.

As the bell begins to strike the hour all conversation ceases and everyone gazes at the old clock. A little window flies open at each side and a procession of solemn figures representing the Twelve Apostles files past, dignified in spite of a certain jerkiness of movement. A figure of Death in a niche of the wall nods his head knowingly as much as to say: "I am the end of all things!" A saint close beside him wags his head in emphatic dissent, as if saying: "Nonsense! I am fully convinced of a life beyond death!"

Influence of Gulf Stream Is Important

By far the most important and well known of the great ocean currents derives its name from the Gulf of Mexico out of which it flows between Cuba and the Bahamas on the one side and the Florida Keys on the other. In its narrowest portion the Gulf Stream is about fifty miles wide, and there it has a velocity at times of as much as five miles an hour. Flowing in a northeasterly direction along the American coast it gradually widens and its velocity diminishes. Reaching the banks of Newfoundland it turns and sweeps across the Atlantic; then, dividing into two portions, it sends one down toward the Azores and the coast of Morocco while the other passes near the British Isles and on to Norway. When it emerges from the Gulf of Mexico it has a temperature of eighty-four in summer, higher than that of the ocean at the equator. By the time it reaches the mid-Atlantic, it is only fourteen degrees lower. The effect of this stream on the climate of the British Isles and Norway is to raise the winter temperature about thirty degrees above what it would be in these latitudes.

Women as Detectives Gaining in Europe

London is somewhat behind New York in establishng a school for policewomen, but the chief constable of the Lancashire county police has established a regular detective force in his division. The head of it, the daughter of a school teacher, has the rank of detective inspector, and is charged with full responsibility for assigning her detective sergeants and detective constables to investigate crime. The girls under her get the same training as men except as to drill. Scotland Yard has not instituted a regular women's detective force, but women sleuths are often employed on cases in which feminine wiles are needed. Usually these female detectives are well educated, and, socially speaking, upper class girls who know how to wear evening gowns and jewels in a natural manner. They frequent fashionable hotels and resorts and are "guests" at big dinners, dances and receptions.

Aged Bachelor Gives Recipe for Long Life

Count Greppi, of Rome, celebrated his103rd birthday not long ago, and so far as the public prints give evidence he is the first person of aristocratic birth of this time who is known to have become a centenarian. Usually the celebrity who has achieved ten decades is a colored gentleman or "mammy" who has known George Washington, or some farm laborer or peasant who attributes his longevity to having chewed tobacco since he was knee-high to a grasshopper. Count Greppi says that his secret is that he has never been in a hurry and, moreover, he has never married!

Old Library Tells Of Asiatic Culture

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Much new information of early Asiatic culture has been found in the discovery of a library of more than 2000 volumes, printed in seven languages, in the famous "lost city" of Kara-Khoto, in the deserts of Mongolia. This announcement, of interest to bibliophiles, was made by F. E. Compton, of Chicago, in addressing a meeting of subscription book publishers here.

"The almost impassable wastes of Mongolia and the mountain fastnesses of Thibet, peopled with savage tribes and wrapped in veils of mystery," said Compton, "are the only parts of the globe today about which we have incomplete information." Consequently the region is becoming the mecca for explorers, and their findings are of great interest to the world at large.

The library of Kara-Khoto, found by the Russian professor Dr. Kozlov, who is continuing his investigations in these regions, consists of books in Hindoo, Persian, Arabic, Chinese and Mongolian. They are in splendid condition due to climatic conditions and the manner they were hidden when the city fell into the hands of a Mongolian horde centuries ago. Kara-Khoto, her water supply diverted by a shrewd engineer, secreted here are treasures before her inhabitants made a sortie and were slain on the plain outside the city's walls. Legend holds that this occurred in the thirteenth century. The city, partly covered now by drifting sand, was never again occupied.

Pastor Will Attend Retreat in Mountains

Rev. Ernest E. Ford, pastor of the Glendale Baptist church, will be among the Baptist ministers of southern California to leave Monday for Camp Baldy for their fourth annual retreat. There will be 100 in attendance.

They will spend parts of three days in prayer and conference concerning the work of the coming year.

Rev. Ford will tell of the retreat at the Wednesday night service at the Glendale church.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"The Lone Star Ranger," with Tom Mix in the lead, assisted by his famous horse, "Tony," is the Fox feature film showing at the Glendale Theatre today.

The offering was directed by Lambert Hillyer, who directed many of William Hart's popular westerns. The story is an adaptation of the Zane Grey novel of the same name.

The story of "The Lone Star Ranger" pictures a man who had been an outlaw, captured by the Texas Rangers (Texas, of course, as everyone knows, or should know, being the Lone Star state), who then becomes a ranger himself and goes forth to hunt down one of the most dangerous gangs in that country. In hunting down the gang, Duane (Tom Mix), finds love and happiness.

In addition, Chapter 16 of "The Oregon Trail" shows at the Glendale Theatre tonight.

Take inventory every day
And cast your idle thoughts away.

THE GATEWAY

"Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," a thrill-laden French film, featuring Gloria Swanson, is the Paramount vehicle showing at the Gateway theatre today. It is a story novel in theme and treatment, splendidly produced.

The story is of a young American millionaire whose chief hobby seems to be wife collecting. He has seven to his credit, all nicely divorced and mounted in his alimony gallery, when he comes to Europe, and meets, in a chic French thing, none other than Wife No. 8.

His manner of proposing and winning the heart of this pretty girl produces a film full of amusements. And then, just as all is set, and the marriage is to be solemnized, all seven of his exwives arrive on the scene. The result is one of the funniest scenes ever depicted in a film.

"Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" is sure to please patrons who like a clever, humorous film of the highest type.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The stock market closed irregular today. Stocks in most cases receded to their previous closing prices, leaving the average price level about unchanged from yesterday.

Steel stocks were lower all through the day, Gulf States Steel yielding ⅜, to 77⅝; Republic nearly one point, to 44½; United States Steel, ¾, to 88½, and Crucible, ⅝, to 61. Oil stocks were heavy and showed fractional losses. Railroad stocks were somewhat steadier. The remainder of the list was irregular, with price changes about evenly divided.

Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds were irregular. Stock sales today totalled 888,000 shares; bonds, $9,086,000.

Stoves invented by Benjamin Franklin, consisting of a cast-iron fireplace jutting out from the chimney, were first manufactured in Philadelphia in 1744.

Whole World Cherishes Same Ideals Found in Glendale, Declares Native of Australia

THERE are men all over the world who cherish the same high ideals of human liberty that lie so close to the hearts of Americans. That was the poignant thought of an eloquent address delivered to the Glendale Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon meeting in Jensen's Egyptian Village. Dr. O. E. Hoare, a native of Australia and present secretary of the California State Optometrists' Association, was the speaker.

Dr. Hoare, who is to locate in Glendale shortly, was introduced by George U. Moyse, principal of Glendale Union High school as chairman of the club's educational committee. George B. Karr, president of the organization, had first cleared the business of the meeting for the intellectual treat.

Brother Lived Here

In opening his remarks, the club's speaker stated that twenty years ago his older brother was superintendent of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital here. Their parents went to Australia in 1858 and sunk the first artesian well in the western part of the southern continent.

"Australia is a democracy, a free government of the people," Dr. Hoare told the Rotarians. "We have had to fight things out for ourselves way down there.

"Australia is the same size, within a very few miles, as the United States. It has seven and one-half millions of people, 95 per cent of whom are Anglo-Saxon.

Settle Race Problem

"What has hampered its industrial progress, you may ask, in studying the international situation. I use the term 'hampered' inadvisably. But I want you to know we have maintained a 'white' Australia, in spite of tremendous growth.

"We have the Orient, right at our doors, with its millions of colored laborers, but we say 'No' in Australia. It is a country preserved for the white man.

"Yet the principle of the world is rotation. You see that emphasized in the Rotary wheel. That which is stationary is stagnant. That is why we come to America.

America Means Much

"And what can America bring to Australia? Everything. America has given Australia a pattern for government. They have employed your skilled brains to direct expansion. In peace the countries are parallel. In war we are parallel.

"I expect to live to see the time when this Pacific state and this Pacific continent will know each other better," said Dr. Hoare, in leading up to his conclusion that human ideals are the same the world over.

Charity seemed to be the keynote of the meeting, Roy L. Kent speaking to the members about aiding in the Japanese Relief Fund drive. Following the luncheon the directors met and voted $100 to the Red Cross for this purpose.

Dr. Warren Z. Newton spoke on the Community Chest work by the Chamber of Commerce committee, of which he is chairman. He said it was an efficient way in which to handle the various organizations and eliminate the continuous drive for funds.

Will Be Modest Drive

Burton McGinnis, secretary of the committee, also was called upon and he declared the Glendale Community Chest should be for a modest sum, the one big drive to be conducted by local people without paid organizers.

The remarks seemed to meet popular approval as the Rotary club went on record as favorng the plan. After consulting other organizations the Chamber of Commerce committee, which has thoroughly investigated the subject, will report back to the board of directors and a Community council formed to handle the chest campaign.

Jesse H. Lamkins of Santa Maria was among the guests who boosted his home town, other visiting Rotarians being General J. J. Borree of Sacramento, Jimmie Shelton, C. M. Andrews, George Sillers and Leo Green, of Los Angeles; J. C. Crawford, F. Curt Miller, Dail Eichar, J. J. King and J. A. Swall of Burbank; Paul W. Light of Liberal, Kan., and John C. Bewley of Lodi, "home of the grape."

Picnic Is Planned

H. A. Stillman and Malcolm C. MacLennan were among other guests of the club.

A picnic at Brookside park in Pasadena will be held by the Rotarians next Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Rene Olin and Owen C. Emery to captain baseball teams. Ed Jones will be in charge of the ice cream and coffee, according to James M. Rhoades, chairman.

Next week's meeting will be in charge of Tom Watson at his paper office.

Yes, Pasadena Gets No Condiments This Year

Pasadena has put the ice in spice! Her "mean old men"—the censorship board of the Crown City—have decided that they will not be responsible for the pretty girls in "The Spice of 1922" risking their lives by exposure in the Raymond Theatre, where this diverting musical production was booked for one day next week.

Hearing certain advance notices about "The Spice of 1922," the board decided to attend the gingery confection in Los Angeles, where it is now running. They came away with the conviction that while the piece as a whole might not offend the proprieties, certain lines and ankles were a bit too racy for Pasadena. Too bad Glendale hasn't a "legitimate" stage on which to play this attraction, say those who like condiments.

INTEREST GROWS IN DATE EXHIBIT

Showing At Riverside Fair Is Assuming Important Proportions

The date show at the Southern California fair at Riverside, Oct. 9 to 13, is assuming very interesting and extensive proportions. There is a novelty and interest attached to this wonderful, new and rapidly developing industry which is entrancing. The fruiting date is comparatively a recent importation from the desert sections of the old world but its rapid growth and development in the Coachella valley of California has surpassed even the expectations of the government. In some directions there has been more progress in the twenty-five years of date history there, than in the twenty-five hundred years' experience in the old world.

At Riverside every phase of the date industry will be graphically depicted. Over one hundred varieties will be shown and every form and conception of commercial pack will be on exhibition.

A unique oriental setting has been planned for this show. The striking colors of the orient with attendants in native costumes, with sheiks and harems and camels, date groves and pyramids all setting off in graphic style the original home of the date. Much interest has already attached to this wonderful show, and owing to the fact that the largest date development in the United States is located in Riverside county, the management of the Southern California Fair has decided to set it out as a special feature of the coming show this fall.

ICE NEEDED FOR WORK OF RELIEF

Preservation of Foodstuffs Important Element in Aiding Japanese

According to officials in charge of Japanese relief work, conservation of food rather than supply is the big problem. While rice, flour and canned goods comprise the bulk of the cargo carried by food ships, there is also an enormous amount of perishable foodstuffs being sent to the stricken country.

As these foodstuffs will be distributed in a region where the usual sanitary and hygienic conditions have been completely demoralized, the problem of conservation is of paramount importance.

Consequently efforts are being made to secure ice which will be depended upon for the conservation of perishable foods. The ice supply will be drawn from all available sources adjacent to the devastated territory and also from refrigerator ships.

The spread of cholera, which has been reported, is without doubt due to the fact that people are eating foul food to stave off starvation. A spread of the pestilence would increase the difficulties of relief measures. Otherwise the supplying of food, shelter and medicinal supplies would be a comparatively easy task. Hence prompt action in securing sufficient ice is vitally necessary

Rev. W. E. Edmonds to Be Welcomed Home

Attendants at the Glendale Presbyterian church on Sunday will welcome the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, home from his annual vacation.

While in the north the first part of his vacation Rev. Edmonds attended the meeting of the California synod at Asilomar, and, upon returning home, he spent much time supervising the work on the new church building.

In greeting him on Sunday the membership of the church is planning to attend all services en masse. At the morning service Rev. Edmonds will take as his sermon theme, "Spiritual Mountain Tops," and at night he will preach on "Darkness at Noon."

Church Club to Hear Lecture at Supper

The Congregational Men's club is to meet at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the church for supper and a lecture.

W. B. Blossom of Los Angeles will be the after-supper speaker, giving an illustrated lecture on "The Romance of Electricity." It will be the story of the development of water power, California's "white coal."

All men of Glendale are invited to the affair.

KIRK SEES REAL 'IRISH BOUQUETS'

sweets.' Wish we could take it along with us.

British Terms Differ

"We are getting used to British terms, such as 'tram' for street car; 'booking' for ticketing or reservations; 'visitor' for guest; 'guard' for conductor or brakeman; 'benzine' or 'petrol' for gasoline; 'chemist' for druggist; 'hair dressing' for barber shop; 'sweets' for dessert; 'solicitor' for lawyer; 'ironmonger' for hardware dealer; 'cattle lairs' for cattle pen; 'tinned' for canned; 'draw' for pull. Also such terms as 'fruiterer' and 'victualler.'

"The chambermaid and porter at the hotel are real functionaries. They are always at hand to attend to anything desired or give information. The porter corresponds in every important particular to the clerk in our hotels.

Cities Durable, but Dirty

"The appearance of the cities is disappointing to an American, because of the dirty-looking buildings, especially so in Edinburgh. The stone construction is very substantial and durable, but age and coal smoke have blackened them. The expense necessary to clean them would be wasted because the smoke and soot would soon make them as black as before.

"I think it is much better to build less expensively and replace the buildings with others as they become old and out of style architecturally, and not adapted to the location and purposes of later development.

"Belfast has a fine, large, beautiful courthouse, a pretentious cathedral, but no particularly interesting sights, so we decided not to tarry there long.

Get Hearty Welcome

"The people of Ulster are largely of Scotch stock. We attended the 'May Street' Presbyterian church on Sunday and found about the same character of service that we have in America. We were greeted and made cordially welcome.

"The kind of weather we have been having followed us from Belfast here. The rolling hills, cut up into small patches of farms, were green and pretty as we came along. The country, as well as the people, seems much the same as Scotland. Our train was very fast, forty miles an hour, including many stops, and the fare very high, about five cents a mile.

"Arriving about 8 p. m. we were very lucky to get a 'booking' at the 'Standard Hotel,' which had been recommended to us. We reached the hotel in an Irish jaunting cart, fare 6s. If you have never ridden in one you haven't missed anything.

Strike at Hotel

"The hotels are full, because the 'Dublin Horse Show,' of which you have all heard, begins today. On arriving we found that the hotel is having strike trouble, the landlord having replaced the strikers and refused to restore their jobs. Six women and a man, with a banner, are parading up and down in front of the hotel taunting and jeering at us and at everybody who goes in or out of the hotel.

Irish Bouquets—

"Saturday night some of their sympathizers threw bricks and stones — and broke three large windows in front, which are not yet replaced, assaulted a night porter, badly injuring one of his eyes, and shot at an officer who tried to arrest them.

"Strikes are in the air. The big dock strike at English ports is also on here, so that the mail boats to Holyhead are about the only ones in or out. We expect to leave tonight and take no further chance on their being tied up also.

Sees Devastation

"The marks of devastation in the late revolution are very evident in Dublin. The burning and blowing up of the large beautiful custom house, is probably the greatest, but the results of fires and bullets are to be seen in many places. Three of the best hotels in the city were destroyed. The present government, in consequence, is holding a strong grip.

"Young soldiers are to be seen everywhere, guarding banks, stationed at prominent corners, marching in squads, being transferred in lorries, etc. I am told there are about 5000 of them in Dublin and about 50,000 in the Free State; 17,000 political prisoners are behind the bars and 5000 more at large in the hills.

"We have taken in some of the principal sights of Dublin, made a visit to beautiful Phoenix park, the university built in Queen Elizabeth's time, and to Christ Church cathedral. The latter I had never heard of but it is a wonderful old church, built by Cedric the Dane in 1031, the original pillars and foundations remain and are a marvel to architects because the building sank on one side and was restored forty or fifty years ago on the same foundation.

Remember Dublin Cat?

"A sarcophagus in black marble 500 or 600 years old and some beautiful statuary in white marble by a sculptor of my own name, Thomas Kirk, are among the interesting features. Oh, yes, a mummified cat catching a rat is wonderfully preserved.

"The guard said that the human body will also dry up into a mummy instead of going to dust, in that atmosphere. I don't believe it, would you?

"This afternoon the wife and daughter, who are very fond of John McCormack's singing, are hearing him at the Royal Theatre in his native city, at 12 shillings per. I told them that I would hear him in Los Angeles at a much less price. Everything is high here. It is surely an anomaly to find commodities so high and wages so low.

"The campaign for the general election in the Free State is on in earnest. President Cosgrave is running to succeed himself for a four-year term. The opinion seems to be that he has made good and that real headway is being made toward a stable government. The Irish people have so many fine qualities and have done so much toward the upbuilding of our own and other countries that we will cherish the hope that they have finally reached a status of government which will bring peace and prosperity to them in their sorely distressed land.

"De Valera has placarded the city that he will speak here next Saturday evening. A large majority of the Irish people feel that they have gained every concession which it is possible to obtain for many years to come, and I don't believe they will stand for any more trouble from De Valera."

Tobacco King Sued By Wife for $84,267 In Old Broker Firm

MRS. VIOLET LIGGETT

That all hopes of a reconciliation between J. E. Liggett, millionaire tobacco king, and his wife, Violet, has been shattered, is made clear by the filing of her suit to recover $84,267.75 from Liggett, Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., and George F. Naphen, members of the old brokerage firm of Liggett and Drexel.

Night High School To Open in Glendale

William Hunter of 107 East Lomita avenue attended the meeting as representatives of the Elk's club. No action was taken in the matter, as the high school board does not feel in a position to pay for the paving.

A delegation of about thirty parents from Tujunga and Sunland attended the meeting to discuss the transportation of their children. After some discussion, it was decided to send a questionnaire to each family involved to ascertain whether they preferred to send their children to school in a private automobile or a bus operated by the Verdugo Hills Transportation company.

As equipment for the new school plant, twelve domestic science tables, twenty-four physics tables and thirty-six general science tables were ordered.

Bids from five companies for the electric fixture contract were received and laid on the table until sample fixtures can be installed.

Panorama's Beauty Repaid Early Residents' Toil in Climbing Hills Near City

By OLD TIMER
Member of The Evening News Staff

WITH the powerful engine of the modern automobile purring up the winding road through the olive trees which cover the southern slopes, Old Timer climbed to the summit of Woodbury's hill the other day and looked down on the city which has taken the place of the little village that nestled in the valley below and memory, ever busy, recalled the old days before the miles of pavement tempted the speeding autoist to endanger the life and limb of pedestrians, when a climb to what was known as the "gravel pit" on Woodbury's hill or up the slopes of the equally well known Wells' hill or Canyon Crest, as the Wells' home place was called, was a part of the Sunday program.

The view from either was entrancing and the speeding autoist of today can have no realization of the glorious panorama which repaid the eforts of climbing these vantage points. These excursions to hill and canyon were very delightful and were the diversions of the young people and some not so young.

To Sycamore Canyon

The season of the year was largely the factor in determining the direction of these pleasant wanderings. In the spring a favorite walk was out Verdugo road to where Sycamore Canyon road diverges, following up the picturesque canyon past the cactus hedge which surrounded the old Newcomb place, past the little ranches nestling at the foot of the hills and through the gates of Sycamore Park, a favorite place for small picnics in the early days. At this time of the year, the water came tumbling down the canyon over the flat rocks and sandy, pebbly bed, and the wild ferns sprang up on the north slopes of the hillsides, maiden hair and the more common wood fern.

Sauntering along the road winding dimly up the trail, peering into spooky caverns which were supposed by the uninitiated to be gold mines of the early prospectors, but which were no doubt tunnels for developing water, up and on up till you came to an open meadow and the ruins of a cabin which was called the Frenchman's cabin, the former owner of which was supposed to have been murdered.

Later tradition has it that he was an Italian, and when a fellow countryman came to work in the olive orchards on the Ross place, he recognized him as a fugitive from justice, and he was later taken to Italy to serve a life sentence for hi crime. The reader can take his choice of stories. Old Timer vouches for neither. "They were told to me."

The walk usually terminated at the rotting timbers and crumbling walls, as a near approach was discouraged by members of the snake tribe, which sprawled on the bare slope or curled up in the entrances of the numerous holes. If, however, your courage carried you past, following the foot or horseback trail across the meadow, a really truly prospect hole was to be seen, although abandoned long before.

It was in the spring, too, that the yellow violets grew in profusion in a little corner east of town at the foot of the elevation, where the new Sanitarium is built, and each year a pilgrimage must be made to gather these dainty blossoms.

As summer wore on the favorite walk was to old Verdugo park, where one could wander along the singing brook, under the shade of the big sycamore trees, crossing the rustic bridges or stooping at the brink to pick the cress that grew along the shady bank, dipping their leaves of tender green into the sparkling water.

Crimson holly was the lure of the hiker in the autumn season, and that, too, was sought on the slope of Well's hill or on the north slopes of the right fork of Sycamore canyon.

Climb Mt. Verdugo

Winter was the time for climbing Mt. Verdugo and old residents, newcomers and tourists alike felt the call, and every bright winter day saw a procession that looked at a distance like an army of ants climbing Verdugo's slopes. The adventuresome climbed straight up back of the old adobe Casa Verdugo, later called La Ramada. Others, less daring, followed the "hog's back" up through Judge Ross' place, a longer but less steep way.

If the heights looked too unattainable the foot hill road was followed west to Kenneth road where the view was almost as inspiring as from the top of Verdugo.

Each excursion was planned as a part of the playtime of the year and it is a question whether even the "Rim-of-the-World" will offer greater pleasure to Old Timer than these.

Tax Association Will Hold Annual Meeting

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, Sept. 14. — Plans are under way for the annual convention of the National Tax Association to be held here September 24-28. SOURDOUGH SEEKS 'PARD' ON WHIZZER

Alaskan Miner Describes Airplane-Sled Which Will Make Trip

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 14.—Robert Edmonds, 50, trapper, hunter—a kind of a "miner fresh from the creeks"—maintains he has perfected an airplane-sled that will whiz him over the 900 miles from Fairbanks to Nome and back in ten days.

"All I want is a tough, rough, good-natured partner with enough of a poke to finance us," he said.

"One who can shoot straight—who will, if necessary, fight to the last ditch. Life exists by a thread up there."

Edmonds was raised in the Blue Ridge mountains of West Virginia "in the next county to the Hatfields and the McCoys." Four times he's been in Alaska—the last time in 1921. He's been working on his airplane-sled since then and declares it will go.

Scheme is Secret

He is a bit secretive about the sled. However, there is one propeller that pushes it along, under another that lifts the front end over obstructions. It travels only on the rivers and lakes.

The big trapper dreams of wealth in fur trading with eskimos and injuns and generally revolutionizing transportation in the far, frozen north. All he needs for success, he claims, is the "rough, tough fellow with a poke," one "quick on the trigger" and a born fighter.

REPARATION ROW IS REAL DANGER

Czecho-Slovakian Premier Sees Europe's Progress Halted by Impasse

PRAGUE, Sept. 14.—"A real danger lurks in postponing the settlement of reparations problems, and if the issue leads England and France to part company the peaceful development of Europe will pay the price," declared Dr. Benes, Czecho-Slovakian premier, in an interview.

Asked concerning the menace of civil war in Germany, Dr. Benes expressed the belief that no coup, either from the right or the left, would enable exhausted Germany to undertake any action beyond her borders. In such an event, he added, Czecho-Slovakia would be an observer, determined to safeguard her own frontiers.

Though describing the Radical Nationalist movements in Germany, Hungary and elsewhere as a universal danger, Dr. Benes emphatically denied that they have anything in common with Fascism.

Discussing the Little Entente's attitude to Hungary's request for the removal of the Allies' liens on Hungarian state property, Dr. Benes spoke with firm conviction.

"We demand positive assurance that Hungary will not use foreign loans to support policies which jeopardize the peace and consolidation of Central Europe.

"We insist that Hungary's disarmament be executed in the strictest accordance with the peace treaty. Moreover, we require guarantees that the loans granted to Hungary will not be devoted to financing such enterprises as Irredentist propaganda and organizations imperiling peace.

"We are not satisfied with Hungary's formal declarations. Hence we demand a financial control of Hungary wherein we share.'

Epidemic of Mad Itch Alarms Stock Raisers

MOULTRIE, Ga., Sept. 14. Aroused by reports that hemorrhagic septicemia, commonly known as "mad itch," has killed seven cows in this section, the cattle owners are instigating means to prevent the spread of the disease. It is stated that cows, inoculated with a serum in the same manner that hogs are treated as a preventive of cholera, are immune for a period of one year from the deadly disease. This treatment is said to cost from 50 to 75 cents.

Rev. Cole Home From Five Weeks' Vacation

Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Cole and son, Connor, of 132 South Kenwood street, returned last night from a five-weeks' vacation trip to the middle west.

Rev. Clifford A. Cole, who is pastor of the Central Christian church, was a delegate to the annual convention at Colorado Springs, Colorado, of the Churches of Christ in America. Besides representing California upon the recommendations committee, he delivered an address on the subject, "Training the Leadership of the Church."

"This was one of the best conventions that we have ever had," asserted Mr. Cole this morning. "Reports were very good. The convention next year will be held in Cleveland, Ohio."

Revival services conducted by "Gypsie" Smith were attended by Rev. and Mrs. Cole in the South Lawrence Ave. Christian church at Wichita, Kan.

While Mrs. Cole and Connor remained in Arkansas City, Rev. Cole visited the village of Derby, near Wichita, where he was born. He was given a real homecoming. During the trip he had the privilege of preaching again in the First Christian church of Abilene, Kan., where he began his ministry.

Punctures Tires To Cool Vengeful Spirit

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 14—Mrs. W. L. Scott and Ridley Justice had been platonic friends for a long time. Then came a breach, and a thirst for revenge on the part of Mrs. Scott.

Being possessed of original ideas, Mrs. Scott rushed down the street with an ice pick and into a garage where Justice was waiting with his expensive twin-six automobile. With great speed she dashed around the machine—blooie! blooie! blooie! blooie!—four explosions rent the oil-soaked atmosphere, and four tires subsided with a loud cry.

The pioneer ice pick wielder and originator of a new revenge appeared in court before Recorder Johnson a few hours later with a conquering expression written on her face. After hearing the long story the judge fined each $10 and costs. The male contingent of the escapade walked from the court room feeling that the woman with an ice pick had handed him a cold deal.

CHAMPION IS FIT TO FIGHT TONIGHT

Betting Favors Dempsey in Face of Firpo's Great Physical Advantage

WHAT THEY SAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Confidence ruled in both the Dempsey and Firpo camps today as the battle hour approached. Here is what the fighters say:

Dempsey—"Not a worry in the world and am ready for battle. I have no battle plan other than to keep my jaw out of range of Firpo's right and keep my back off the floor. I'll make my battle plans when the opening gong sounds. My only hope is that Firpo is feeling as fine as I do—then the publice will see a real championship scrap."

Firpo—"I feel fit to fight any man in the world, and I am confident I will be the winner. It is not my habit to say in what round I will —but win I will. The longer the battle goes the better will be my chances.

champion a marvel of physical perfection.

Upwards of 80,000 persons, the second largest crowd that ever witnessed a sporting event, will watch the fight. The world, in short, will revert to the fifteenth century for a single night and hold carnival over another's blood. The bout is scheduled for fifteen rounds, but few look for such an ending and none hope for it. They want the thrill of seeing a big man go down and stay there.

It is why the spectators will pay something like $1,250,000 at the gate, approximately $500,000 of which will go to Dempsey and about $150,000 to Firpo.

It is why some of the 30,000 visitors are in New York today, some of them coming as far away as Australia. About 200 are here from the Argentine republic, Firpo's motherland.

A dank, cold day with leaden skies greeted the occasion, giving promise of great popularity of overcoats tonight. The official forecast is fair and cooler. In the event of rain, the bout will be held tomorrow night.

In Line All Night

The starting hour for the big event is 9:30. Fans waited in line all night at the Polo grounds for the privilege of buying the first general admission seats, the first to appear being Charles O'Brien, of Boston, and Jack Farrell, Port Arthur, Texas. They both had field glasses and overcoats.

The first preliminary will begin promptly at 8 o'clock, weather permitting. By that time it is expected that every general admission seat will have been sold and the reserved seats well filled.

Although many critics of boxing form have declared, unequivocally, that the champion will retain his title without trouble, interest in the fight is tremendous.

Bets Favor Champion

Betting on the fight, which has been brisk, places Dempsey as the favorite at odds of 3 to 1. The brokerage house of J. S. Fried and company, estimate that $350,000 is at stake on the outcome in the Wall street district alone.

On good authority it is reported that Jack Kearns, manager for Dempsey, had laid $5,000 against a Wall street man's $10,000 that the champion would win in five rounds.

It is also reported that Kearns has posted another $5,000 to bet against the best odds that Dempsey would win in a single round.

The champion spent a restful night at the Hotel Belmont and remained there this morning. The challenger also went to bed early at his 94th street apartment and declared this morning that he had spent a restful night. He sat around the apartment this morning, reading the newspapers and conversing in guarded tones with his countrymen. They seemed to consider the pending event with due gravity, but were outwardly confident.

Accepts Resignations

The resignations were given to the King this morning. It was understood he accepted them immediately.

General Rivera was formerly commander of the Barcelona garrison.

Resignation of the cabinet was the chief demand of the revolutionary leaders.

The country is quiet.

According to press reports, General Rivera will preside over a "super-directory" which will later be replaced by a non-political civilian cabinet.

Postpone Elections

Parliament will be dissolved, but there will be no general election for the present.

Socialist labor unions issued a proclamation announcing they would not submit to the revolution nor support it. They denounced the movement as seditious, but warned workers to maintain order and not conduct any hostile demonstrations until the executive committee of the unionists meet and formulate a formal decision.

Blue Sky Limit for Chilean Hospitality

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—If you think they turn over the keys to the city in grand style to distinguished visitors to the United States, you don't know what a real welcome is like. Listen to what they do in Chile.

An American who recently visited Valparaiso was told that he not only was welcome but that he could commit any crime he wanted to, even murder, if such a fancy overtook him.

It happened like this: Some mistake was made in overseeing his passport. He complained. To atone for the error the passport identification officer called on the American personally and brought with him the chief of police. "Now," he said, "as an apology and to show you how we would really like to welcome you, we will allow you to commit any crime you like, be it little or big. I will refuse to identify you and my friend the chief of police will refuse to arrest you."

So overcome by this generosity the American reports that he committed no crime—that is to say, not a crime in Chile. Escorted by the two city minions, he was led to a drink dispensing parlor, where all three drank to each other's health in best Latin-American style.

Funeral for Mother of Glendale Citizen

Mrs. Josephine Johnson, the mother of Frederick C. Johnson, 1004 East Maple street, Glendale, who died at ner home at 618 East Thirty-fifth Place, Los Angeles, was buried today, Friday, September 14, 1923, from the Swedish Mission Tabernacle, Francisco and Lincoln streets, Los Angeles. The husband, Charles A. Johnson, also survives.

FACE MURDER CHARGE

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 14.—Merle Warden and Harry Karlson, of Detroit, are held in the county jail at Ogalla, today on a charge of murder, following the shooting at midnight of Grover C. Rodman, Ogalla real estate man.

Earrings 7000 Years Old Are Discovered

CHILICOTHE, Ohio, Sept. 14. Earrings are not new here.

Just about 7,000 years ago those familiar with baubles—earrings—say they were all the rage right here in Ross county. Workmen recently established this fact when, digging out in the Hopewell mounds, they ran across a cremated burial with twenty-four sets of earrings keeping the remains close company. These ornaments are of copper, bone, mica and stone. Some of them are inlaid with pearls.

The ingenious mound-building Lothario had to be handy with his earring tools. The flappers of those days, evidently, required a different set for each occasion.

Hour-glass and barrel shapes were the popular designs. Girls who possessed pearl-inlaid lobe ornaments must have had "beaus," or fathers, who possessed staggering incomes from tomahawk factories. Several mica discs, probably used as breast ornaments, also were found in the mounds.

$100,000 Office Supply House Opening Here

Plans are under way to give Glendale a wholesale and retail stationery and supply house, backed by a $100,000 corporation, C. F. Lee of Council Bluffs, Ia., being associated with two local men in the project.

A location is now being sought, it is reported. The new enterprise should be fully launched and doing business within six weeks. A full line of Y. & E. filing cabinets and safes will be carried, together with complete stocks of office furniture and equipment of every kind.

"The city is large enough to support such a store," says Mr. Lee, who has had fifteen years of experience in the stationery supply business. "There is no reason why Glendale merchants should go to Los Angeles for their store and office supplies."

PLANET MARS IS NOT DEAD WORLD

English Astronomer at Teneriffe Makes Very Novel Deductions

By CHARLES A. SMITH
For International News Service

LONDON, Sept. 14. That Mars is changing, and has changed, and that the planet is far from being a dead world, are the main observations given in a detailed report received in London from P. M. Ryves, the English astronomer, who for more than a year has been watching the planet at Teneriffe through a powerful telescope placed at a height of 8,000 feet.

Mars appears to be far from a dead world, Ryves reports, but whether it is inhabited by intelligent humans like those of our sphere is perhaps the most absorbing question yet to be solved.

In his remarks as to the planet's propensity for changing, Ryves maintains that the changes are most marked.

Sea Is Changed

"The dark marking called Syrtis Major, or Hour Glass sea, from its shape, which is more familiar to man than any object of the planetary map, has developed an appendage," he says. "It has a tumor on its side, entirely altering its appearance and giving it nearly a square shape.

"In 1909 there was no vestige of this. Also, in a period of fourteen years more than 100,000 square miles of country formerly characterized by the pale yellow tint of the bright (supposedly) 'desert' regions has changed to an obscure dusky brown.

"Of the so-called 'lakes' some have been unusually and persistently dark during the last few months, especially Lacus Solis, which a few years ago had been nearly invisible. It now shows up as an intensely dark spot, about 400 miles across.

Canals Altered

"Some of the 'canals' have changed distinctly, and there have been curious developments. A fairly broad 'canal' was detected running down the 140th meridian. This is either new or a reappearance of the Canal Aethiops, which had faded away," says Ryves.

"Most of the canals are fairly broad, straight or curved streaks. Some are dark and quite prominent; others more hazy and difficult to make out.

"The Teneriffe observations do not show a vast and complicated network," Ryves points out, "but there are indications that the canals are really there.

"Brilliant, small patches of a pale yellow were made out and pink in the 'deserts.' The colors may be of volcanic origin, as at Teneriffe deposits of pumice stone stand out yellow-white on red scoria."

Ryves concludes his observations for the first year by remarking that something resembling hoar frost or snow was seen in the lower latitudes of the planet, fading away on the morning edge, so there are possibilities of hoar frost or possibly frozen gas there.

FARMERS IN WAR ON CORN BORERS

Alarming Inroads on Chief American Crop Threat of European Bug

By WILLIAM J. HUSKE
For International News Service

CLEVELAND, Sept. 14.—Science has been enlisted in a great war upon an insect less than an inch long, when fully developed, and the northern counties of Ohio, skirting Lake Erie, comprise the battle front.

The European corn borer, which, if unchecked, will in time destroy the immense corn crops of the United States, is the enemy, and all the scientific lore of the federal and state departments of agriculture has been called upon for aid. In addition the support and co-operation of every farmer will be necessary.

Strict quarantines have been established in the Ohio counties bordering on Lake Erie, and no corn, either green or mature, raised in these counties may be transported either east or west. Farmers must feed their corn and have been requested to either feed or destroy all the fodder which may be produced.

Most Important Crop

When it is remembered that the corn crop of the United States is by long odds the most important single crop, exceeding by tremendous figures in value both "King Cotton" and wheat, the importance of this war and the success of the campaign to end the menace to the great corn-producing states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and others may be appreciated.

In 1921, the last year for which complete figures were available, the corn crop covered 118,901,000 acres, and the value of the crop was estimated at $4,000,000,000, a sum larger than the total income of the United States government for the last fiscal year.

Rivals Boll Weevil

If the efforts to check the ravages of this insect pest, whose work threatens to rival in destructiveness that of the boll weevil of the southern cotton fields, prove unavailing the cost of meat, and with it the cost of living to all of America's one hundred and ten millions of people, will be largely increased.

The pest is believed to have arrived in the United States in 1910 on broom-corn shipments from Hungary or Italy. Its first identification occurred in Massachusetts in 917, where it was found infesting sweet corn raised by market gardeners for the Boston market. Its march across the continent since that time has been gradual but practically unchecked.

The European corn borer is extremely hardy. No poison will kill it—at least scientists have not yet discovered one that will aid in reducing its ravages. It cannot be drowned. Tests have shown that it will live in either salt or fresh water for long periods of time. It is able to fly twenty miles in the moth stage. It can live and thrive in garbage.

Burning Urged

Thus far but two effective means of halting its ravages have been found—burning or eating. It has both bird and parasite enemies, but these means have not proven successful. Federal, state and county farm bureau officials have united in recommending to farmers the following means of combating the borer:

1. Cut corn close to the stalk.
2. Place in silos if possible.
3. Feed all that cannot be turned into ensilage.
4. Gather up and burn all stalks not eaten by stock.
5. On May 1, burn every remnant of fodder left on farms.

While the farmers are expected to co-operate without requiring any pressure the federal and state governments possess ample powers to compel compliance with these demands, it was stated at headquarters of the farm bureau here, from where the campaign will be conducted actively.

ELKS TO ATTEND MEET AT EUREKA

Band in New Uniforms Will Head Delegation to Big Convention

A delegation of over forty representatives of the Glendale Elks' lodge will board the Glendale-Pasadena special next Tuesday afternoon for the state convention at Eureka September 19, 20, 21 and 22.

Headed by the Glendale band in their striking new purple and white uniforms the Glendale delegates will leave the clubhouse on East Colorado street at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The procession will march north on Brand boulevard to California avenue, and then countermarch on Brand south to the Southern Pacific depot. The band will play while marching.

James A. Apffel, exalted ruler of the Glendale Elks' lodge, will head the Glendale contingent. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Apffel. There will be two other Glendale women on the special, Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Kerwin.

List of Delegates

Other Glendalians aboard will be: W. Osterman, band leader; B. M. Burke, band manager; Herbert Henning, H. A. Thompson, Roy Flint, W. G. Bode, J. A. Becker, F. L. Hummel, J. T. Gleason, Ed Kerri, H. C. Jackson, L. E. Wilbur, Dan Boone, F. A. Prouty, C. Kaston, I. S. Brown, F. L. Woollard, H. D. Greenwalt, Ed Moniot, W. M. Ross, R. C. Durke, H. A. Hughes, F. Berto, M. J. Heller, George White, W. Van Duesen, Noel Graham, R. B. Thomas, R. E. Sutton, Mr. Holmes, Mr. Kerwin, band members; Gustav Thimgan, Julius Moniot, W. H. Viohl, E. P. Rose of San Fernando; Harry Houston of San Fernando; Fred Church, John Roman, Walter Adams. In the Glendale section there will also be four members from the lodge at Brawley.

One vacancy remains to be filled and it is probable that it will be taken by tonight.

The special will leave Glendale at 3:20 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and arrive in Eureka at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Report of Ball Game Shows British Style

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The London Post of the American Legion is making a continued effort to introduce baseball in England.

Some Englishmen attend the games for light amusement, but Americans get many laughs out of reading the reports of the games in the English newspapers. A typical report from the Star follows:

Paris Baseball IX. Beaten

London Post, American Legion, beat Paris Post yesterday at Stamford Bridge before 7000 people. Both sides had scored 2 runs up to the seventh innings, when London hit up 5 and decided the issue.

Gildersleeve pitched brilliantly, and did other fine work in the field for the winners.

PLAN INTERNATIONAL MONUMENT IN MEXICO

American Students In Mexico Make Offer, Idea Gets Approval

American students attending summer school in Mexico City have submitted a plan to the Mexican government, which has given its approval, for the erection of a monument at the international border to knit closer the bonds of friendship between the two countries. Prof. W. I. Kelsey, Detroit, spokesman for the students, suggested a monument of Abraham Lincoln and the Mexican patriot, Juarez, shaking hands. President Obregon has approved the idea.

SPIRIT OF CHRIST NEED OF EUROPE

Wife of U. S. Solon Suggests Panacea for Troubles of Old World

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service

LONDON, Sept. 4.—"What Europe needs to have peace is a kindlier, more Christ-like spirit among its people," according to Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago, wife of the former United States senator from Illinois.

"Europe would accomplish more toward the settlement of its problems if it would talk less and work more," in the opinion of Mrs. Jacob Bauer, also of Chicago, who is one of the most successful business women in the United States.

Both Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Bauer are spending the summer in Europe. Primarily they are here to derive pleasure from a season in the Old World, but both are keenly interested in efforts being made to restore peace and end the political and industrial chaos that has prevailed since the war and which now threatens another crisis in European affairs. They have lost no opportunity to gain first-hand information upon existing conditions.

"It is shocking to see the jealousies and the flaming hatreds that still prevail among the nations of Europe," said Mrs. Lewis. "It is these jealousies and hatreds that are keeping alive the spirit of war and preventing a settlement of the pressing problems of the world.

"It is surprising to note the degree of retrogression from the high ideals that were uppermost during the war. Selfish national interests seem to have crowded out all ideas of mutual co-operation to bring about a return to international sanity.

"I cannot help feeling that all of Europe's problems are soluble if the leaders and the people of the several nations would manifest a greater desire for compromise. I think the real solution lies in a more general application of the principles of Christianity to international affairs. The Ten Commandments would seem to me to be the best basis for international diplomacy."

Mrs. Bauer, being a practical business woman, is a firm believer in the gospel of hard work as the best remedy for the world's troubles.

More Action Needed

"The trouble is that folks spend too much time in talking and not enough in doing. Ideals are necessary, and it is all right to talk about them, but unless they are executed they have no value. The problems that Europe faces are certainly capable of solution if those who are trying to settle them will get down to business and look at things in a reasonable light.

"I'm an optimist and firmly believe that ultimately a solution will be found, and everything will come out all right. But steps should be taken immediately to put an end to disturbed international conditions. Just talking about it and exchanging notes will not do it."

So far as the effect of disturbed conditions in Europe on American business is concerned, Mrs. Bauer believes it is more psychological than material.

Mrs. Lewis does not believe that the sentiment of a majority of the American people is predominantly pro-French, pro-British or pro-European in anything.

"There is the greatest contrast," she said, "between Europe and America in the way the people feel about things. Americans, I think, really do not care much about what happens in Europe. They respond quickly to any situation that touches their hearts. Relief work appeals to them because it is something they can do, and their ready sympathy goes out to fellow men who are in actual distress.

"It is very difficult for anyone, however, to maintain a constant interest in the affairs of a neighbor who is 3,000 miles away. Things that happen in Europe touch the life of the average American so remotely that his concern about them is purely casual. When I return from abroad people ask me 'How's Europe?' but before I can tell them they start talking about prohibition or some other domestic affair that is closer to their hearts. Their interest in Europe is really not vital.

"Every European I meet, however, seems to be personally interested in European affairs and utterly at a loss to understand the seeming indifference of the Americans to conditions on this side of the water."

Even those Americans who came to Europe with the announced intention of investigating and learning at first hand what conditions really are seldom go home with any accurate knowledge of the real situation, according to Mrs. Lewis.

"Many Americans come over here eager to learn," she said, "but when they get here they become interested in such a diversity of things and find the opportunities for having an enjoyable time so numerous that they forget their purpose and go home without any really accurate insight into European problems."

May Ship Beer Here In Form of Tablets

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—Following the discovery of a German preparation developed by Berlin brewers to aid in averting the impending malt and barley famine, William Joller and Harry Briton, two New York citizens, now in Berlin, maintain that they are ready to circumvent the Volstead act by flooding the United States with beer in tablet form.

According to Joller and Britton, the preparation cannot be barred from the American customs, but once it is in the hands of a home-brewer all he has to do is throw it into thirty-five quarts of water, and in 24 hours he has the equal of the best lager beer that was ever foamed.

Trial packages have been sent to America, and sufficient orders have been received to warrant the manufacture of millions of tablets.

Germany already is using the preparation in wholesale quantities.

Pershing Stadium Is Costly for Parisians

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Pershing Stadium, built for the American Expeditionary Forces on the outskirts of Paris, scene of the inter-allied games after the armistice and afterward turned over to the city of Paris, is proving a white elephant on the hands of the city fathers.

City officials asked M. Lefevre, guardian of the Bois de Vincennes, to manage the stadium, authorizing him to lease it to athletic societies at $75 daily rental. The city receives only 8 per cent of this amount, the remainder being used for upkeep.

Very few French athletic clubs can afford to pay the rental. Therefore the stadium is usually idle. Receipts do not equal upkeep expenses.

Grave Digging Plan Stirs British Ire

CRANHAM, Essex, Eng., Sept. 14.—The University of Georgia has caused a terrible commotion in this quiet old world town.

Application has been made by the American university for the right to search for the remains of General James Edward Oglethorpe, the founder of Georgia and its university.

Recent grave-digging expeditions have aroused considerable ire in England and there is a question whether the application will be granted.

The dynamo in some men needs rechecking, in others a new coil.

BANDIT GETS $24 FROM CONDUCTOR

Pedestrian Run Down; Pair of Alleged Auto Thieves Overtaken in L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—"I put my last nickel in that box, and now I want what you've got," growled a lone highwayman early today, as he stuck a revolver toward the conductor of a Los Angeles railway street car and took $20 from him of the car company's money and $4 of the conductor's own money, according to the police.

A broken leg, arm and shoulder were sustained by Lewis Vasquez today when he was struck at First and Rowan street by an automobile, the driver of which did not stop. Though a number of persons witnessed the accident none of them were able to secure its license number, according to the sheriff's office.

While surgeons at the general hospital today endeavored to save the life of Michael Aguilar, 19, who was dangerously wounded when shot by a policeman last night, the police started an investigation of the activities of Aguilar and his companion, Manuel Lopez, who is under arrest. Arguilar is said to have confessed that he and Lopez were riding in a stolen machine.

ORIOLES TO HAVE GLENDALE LODGE

Organizers Laying Plans to Form Branch of Order In This City

E. E. Hall and M. A. Woare, department organizers of the Fraternal Order of Orioles, are in Glendale today for the purpose of forming a nest of Orioles in this city.

They state that this organization is national in scope, patriotic, protective, non-sectarian; that its members take an obligation to trade with each other, patronize home industries, assist fellow members in obtaining employment, provide a burial fund for deceased members, provide sick and accident funds for members, free medical attention and other services for members; that Orioles are active in civic, community and welfare work, have a representative form of government; that dues are only 75 cents a month, and that they contemplate building and maintaining a vocational training school for the children of deceased Orioles.

Messrs. Hall and Woare urge prospective members to join now, as the application fee will be $25 after closing the charter. Orioles, they state, seek first of all to impress upon men's minds the great lesson of pure, moral lives; and, by the teachings of their order, to create a better, higher standard of citizenship, together with that brotherhood of man which is liberal, integral, fraternal and equable.

Full information concerning Fraternal Order Orioles can be obtained by communicating with Edgar E. Blackwell, state director of organization, 4818 Mascot street, Los Angeles, phone 768-626.

PUBLIC SHOWING OF ROGERS TRUCK

Demonstration and Lecture Will Be Held Saturday by Manufacturers

A demonstration of the Rogers Four Wheel Drive truck is to be given tomorrow, Saturday, at 2 p. m., at the corner of South Brand boulevard and West Harvard street, when the capabilities of the truck will be shown in detail, and a lecture will also be given that will explain not only the workings of the truck but that will also outline the plans of the Rogers Una-Drive Motor Truck corporation.

Every possible point in connection with the truck itself and the plans of the company will be told, and the demonstrators who will be in charge of the exhibit will welcome any questions that interested persons may care to ask.

The corporation has recently completed its plans for the erection of the first unit of its new plant on the nine-acre site that has been obtained here, and as soon as the building permit can be secured the work of erecting the plant will start. The first unit of the plant will have a capacity of at least one complete truck daily, and employment will be furnished to a large number of expert mechanics from Glendale, although the nucleus of the organization will be brought here from the corporation's Sunnyvale plant, where the trucks are now being manufactured.

Boy Scout Executive Board Meets Tonight

The Boy Scout executive board will hold its first meeting since vacation time this evening at the district scout office, 103½ South Brand boulevard, at 8 o'clock.

A. R. Eastman, president of the Verdugo Hills district council, desires to have all members present, as there are a number of important items to be decided, including the participation of the scout council in the Community Chest, the older scouts' conference at Santa Barbara, an improved plan of council organiaztion, etc.

ASK GOVERNOR'S RECALL

PORTLAND, Sept. 14.—Petitions asking the recall of Governor Walter M. Pierce were being circulated in various parts of Oregon today. The first petition appeared in the farming communities of eastern Oregon in the county adjoining Pierce's home. Ten charges against the executive are carefully specified. Back of the recall are said to be many prominent men and the movement is said to be liberally financed.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—General bearish news and weakness at Liverpool at the opening contributing to a slightly weak close of the grain market today. Reports of frost in the corn belt did not have a bullish reaction.

Wheat closed unchanged to 3-8 cents off. Corn was down 1-8 to 1-4 and oats unchanged to 1-4 up. Provisions were dull.

Tujunga Merchant Raps Baseless Rumor

A. Grant, the Tujunga grocer whose absence, and that of his family, from his store for a week, caused a widespread fear that he had met with an accident or with foul play, writes to The Glendale Evening News to protest against some of the rumors that were circulated during his absence. Mr. Grant states that his stock was not injured or damaged by his neighbors in any way, as has been claimed, and if any of his friends feel that his attitude since his return has shown any trace of ill feeling toward them he wishes to correct that impression.

An assertion that lacks proof lays you open to suspicion.

C. C. Directors Confer on Community Chest

The directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce this morning held a conference at which plans for the approaching drive for the Community Chest were discussed with Dr. Warren Z. Newton, chairman of the committee in charge of the proposed drive. The co-operation of all the local organizations will be sought to fix the date on which the drive will be started, and every effort will be made to carry the Community Chest campaign through to a successful issue as rapidly as possible and to insure that each organization is assured the amount called for in its budget.

SCIENTIST HERE REVEALS HOW ECLIPSE CAUSED DISASTERS!

HIGH LIVING COST LESS THAN HIGH COST OF LIVING!

Remarkable Discovery About Glendale Made by Prof. Xavius Zantippe

It was the rent problem in Glendale over which Prof. Xavius Zantippe was incensed these foolish fall days. He was wrought up, peeved, pugnacious, exasperated—not at all his accustomed blithe and debonair self.

The learned professor had had some difficulty in finding suitable winter quarters for himself, the Missus, not to forget the fourteen little Zantippes.

Glendale had been searched more or less in vain. Whether the city was too small or the family too large—he didn't know just which.

So we ageed to take him to certain realty brokers of our acquaintance. We not only agreed to do so. We did. And had no luck. Either the landlord was against smoking, disliked cats and babies, or dogs and phonographs, or snoring, and we know not what.

He Has Everything

In despair the learned professor turned to us and said: "What am I going to do? I smoke. My family—cats, babies, dogs, phonographs, snoring—all of that.

"Well, let's go somewhere and eat," we suggested, feeling the noon whistle was about to blow. We went, sat down, and then the professor glimpsed at the bill of fare. It said:

"Don't laugh at our coffee. You will be old and weak yourself some day."

Forthwith and thereupon the professor got up and walked out. Slightly chagrined, we followed. Presently we percolated into another place.

"How's the food?" demanded the professor, with a suspicious gleam at the aenemic waiter.

Stands On Dignity

"Our cook eats here," that individual proudly replied, evidently standing on the dignity of the house, while flourishing a bowl of soup. It might have been a

Why Is Glendale Fastest Growing City in America?

WHY is Glendale the fastest growing city in America? That question will be answered in the Development Section of The Glendale Evening News on Saturday, September 14, by a famed world traveler and geographical expert.

Latest figures on Glendale's population also will be presented while the great building achievement of the city this year will be recounted.

In the Automobile Section there will be a snappy column of Spark Plugs, as well as an interview with a former neighbor of Henry Ford, now living in Glendale, who gives a glimpse into the inventor's home life. Latest developments in the industry also will be told.

You will want extra copies of this edition of The Evening News. Order early, as every copy of last Saturday's edition was soon sold out.

GLENDALE THIRD IN TAX RECORD!

Incomes Increase Here 22.6 Per Cent During Year, Collector Reports

Federal records giving the increase in the number of individual income tax returns filed in the Southern California district for 1923 show that Glendale stands third in the list of cities in Los Angeles county with an increase of 26.6 per cent, the only two cities ranking ahead of Glendale being Los Angeles and Long Beach.

Los Angeles registered a gain of 62.3 per cent and Long Beach 39 per cent, with Pasadena coming fourth with a gain of 20 per cent.

The number of individual income tax returns filed in Glendale in 1922 was 2560, and the 1923 returns reached the total of 3150, a gain of 590 in a year.

The record made by Los Angeles county shows every city in the county, with the exception of seven, made important gains in the number of persons who file returns.

That the Southern California district will lead every other internal revenue unit in the United States is evidenced by a gain of 33.6 per cent in the number of individual returns filed in the district as a whole.

Leaders of Women's Party To Stage Historical Fete In Mountain Scene

Mrs. N. W. Terrill, 342 West Lexington Drive Glendale has been asked by Mrs. Lillian H. Kerr, member of the committee on local arrangements for fete, to attend and to take part in the two day meeting that will mark the celebration at Colorado Springs, Colo., of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the first equal rights meeting ever held in the world.

Mrs. Terrill is keenly interested in every movement that tends to work for the enfranchisement and advancement of the women of the country and has worked steadily for the spread of women suffrage.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 14.—The Garden of the Gods, famous scenic spot in the Pike's Peak region, will be the scene on September 23 of one of the greatest spectacles ever seen in the Rocky Mountain region, when the National Woman's party will stage a ceremonial in celebration of the establishment of equal rights for women.

The pageant will be under the direct supervision of Alice Paul, noted feminist leader, who is now in Colorado, she says, "to aid in the campaign to make the world a better place for women, and a more beautiful place for everyone."

The pageant here will be nearly a reproduction of the scenes presented at the seventy-fifth anniversary of the first equal rights

BOSTON JOURNAL OF 1770 IS CURIO

Now In Possession of Henry Johnston, 111 N. Everett Street, Glendale

A copy of the "Boston Gazette and County Journal," dated Monday, March 12, 1770, brought into the Evening News office by Henry Johnston, 111 North Everett street, contains some very unique reading matter, from the modern viewpoint, for it was printed prior to the Revolution!

The Journal, which was sent to Mr. Johnston by a nephew, Arthur W. Johnston, at present in Silverton, Colo., is believed to have been at one time a part of the Field Museum collection in Chicago.

It states on its front page, under the name plate, naively enough, that it contains "the Freshest Advices, Foreign and Domeftic," and in its reading matter one finds besides the "f" for "s" the following:

Complaint of Colonies

"The grievous Impositions the Inhabitants of the British Colonies have long suffered from their Mother Country, strongly claim their attention to every legal Method for their Removal.

"We esteem the Measure already Proposed, viz—the withdrawing our Trade from England, both economical and effectual."

In the advertising section of the paper, which is a one-sheet fold, one finds:

A FARM IN WORCESTER

To be sold by Publick Vendue, on the Fourth Day of April next, at Ten o'clock in the Forenoon, containing about 170 Acres, with a good House and Barn thereon, and a good Orchard, near the Boston Post Road.

The price the above piece of property was being held at failed of mention in the ad. But no matter, it's too late to buy it now, anyway!

Mr. Johnston here is the possessor of many curios and relics, particularly of Civil War days.

Glendale High Enters New Debating League

The Glendale Union High school will not enter the Central League debating contests, according to Paul Cunningham, secretary of debating. The Southern California Debating League will claim Glendale's interest this year, the winning of this banner to be the sole object.

Although no definite schedule has been made yet, a league meeting for that purpose will be held about the last of September. Miss Corry, who will have charge of debating this year, is very enthusiastic over the splendid material which is to be found in the school.

Truancy is the beginning of a doubtful ending.

GENERAL BORREE INSPECTING SITE FOR RIFLE RANGE

National Guards Chieftain in California Informally Visits Glendale

Brigadier General J. J. Borree, adjutant general for the state of California, with headquarters in Sacramento, was an informal visitor in Glendale yesterday, attending the Rotary club luncheon.

"Your city should not have sacrificed the National Guard rifle range in Sycamore canyon," he said, when interviewed by The Glendale Evening News, "for, although it is intrinsically worth more, perhaps, when subdivided, it would have proven a great advertisement for Glendale.

"The state now is looking for a site for a range in Southern California, where climatic conditions are more favorable for holding international rifle matches than at Camp Perry, Ohio. I am to inspect a site in Griffith park.

Valuable Advertising

"The advertising value to be obtained from a nationally known rifle range is inestimable. In addition to entertaining eastern 'shots,' the international matches attract entrants from England, Scotland, France, Belgium, Norway, Argentine, Chile and other nations."

General Borree gave a broad hint he would be glad for Glendale, closest city to Griffith park, to boost this project, as it would mean much for the community.

The general is well pleased with the guard organization in Southern California, and, speaking of affairs at the capital, he declared Governor Richardson to be a man who is not afraid to speak his mind.

Moon Passing Between Our Earth and Its Sun Interfered With Regularly Established Solar Magnetic Lines of Force

By JULIA S. NICHOLS

Member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and of The Southern California Academy of Science, Who Has Written This Feature Especially for The Glendale Evening News, Which Gives Cause for the Recent Tidal Waves, Earthquakes, etc.

BEFORE we can correctly decide as to the cause of the deflection of star-light as it approaches the neighborhood of our star, (the sun) we should first be sure that our theory covering the nature of sunlight is in accordance with experimental analysis and in harmony with natural phenomena in general. The writer offers, as a result of twenty-five years of research in the field of optics, the following conclusions based on a scrupulous analysis of solar light.

The sun, by virtue of its constitution and surface activities, throws into space two types of active rays. First in the order of these evolved rays are streams of magnetism, units of which are, under mutual repulsion, carried outward from the solar body, while their attraction for the ferric substance of the sun causes them to describe in relative space curved paths which may be termed solar lines of force, while the radius of same is determined by the sun's diameter. The phenomena covering an iron magnet is a miniature example of this natural process. Second, high temperature at the surface of the sun brings about a unique type of combination of a high per cent of these magnetic rays with units of what may be termed pro-hydrogen, forming binary molecules the pulsations of which carry them outward in all directions, describing in relative space rectilinear paths, as was noted by Newton, and these rays, being chemically saturated, they, bearing persistence in combination, are deflected; that is to say, they turn aside from fields of active elements that tend toward their resolution. By virtue of the tenuosity of both types of solar rays and due to

JAPAN TO BUILD WRECKED REGION

Man Power Is Big Asset in Campaign to Restore Losses From Quake

"Japan is badly crippled at present, but her man-power is still intact for the most part and she will rebuild bigger than before along commercial lines."

Such is the opinion of T. Kuranaga, whose establishment at 135 South Brand boulevard is operated under the name of the Japan Art & Tea company.

The city of Tokio, which has a population of 3,500,000 and is about the same size as Chicago, according to Mr. Kuranaga, had decided to remodel its city along modern lines previous to the catastrophe. He looks for the new Tokio to be one of the most up-to-date cities in the world.

Harbor Uninjured

The harbor at Osaka, which is the second largest city of Japan, was not injured and the millions of dollars recently expended upon it were not wasted. Because of its manufacturing, this city is known as "The Cleveland of Japan."

"Fortunately Japan did not have an enemy in the whole world at the time of this disaster," asserted Mr. Kuranaga. "She was even beginning to be well regarded by China and Russia."

Waits Word of Friends

No word has been received by Mr. Kuranaga from any of his friends and relatives in Japan. The Imperial government is giving messages of foreign residents right of way because of native courtesy.

Instead of exaggerating the magnitude of the catastrophe, Mr. Kuranaga believes that the official attitude is to conceal its seriousness to a certain extent. It is his opinion that the disaster is greater than may be imagined.

Selection of Capital Site Stirs Contest

SHANGHAI, Sept. 14.—As intense fight is already raging between several Japanese cities concerning the location of the future capital of the empire, according to reports reaching Shanghai today.

Kyoto, Osaka and Kobe, despatches say, are all insisting that the capital be transferred to one of these cities and that Tokio be abandoned. However, the government is said to be strongly opposed to any such plan. Viscount Goto, minister of home affairs, is quoted as saying that Tokio will be completely rebuilt as soon as possible and that the capital will not be moved.

Commenting on this propaganda, Viscount Goto is said to have asserted with great emphasis that every effort would be taken to reconstruct Yokohama and Tokio on such a scale that the famous cities could continue to maintain their rank as Japan's best cities.

The plans for the rehabilitation of Tokio as given out by Viscount Goto, and carried in despatches received here today, are extremely ambitious.

Included in the plans is said to be a proposal to dredge the Sumida river, flowing through Tokio, so that ocean going vessels may proceed all the way up to the capital city from the bay of Tokio.

The outlay of the entire city will be re-designed, according to the reconstruction plans, so as to allow for wide thoroughfares, radiating to all parts of the city from one great central park.

Denby Asks Report On Lost Destroyers

HOUSEKEEPING IS MADE ENJOYABLE

Electrical Appliances Give Women Leisure for Other Endeavor

The Glendale Hardware Company at 601 East Broadway, recently was prevailed upon to establish a Good Housekeeping department and employed H. J. Cox as manager. The reception and patronage which the department has received has exceeded all expectations, which has resulted in a large number of electrical household appliances being sold.

Mr. Cox comes to Glendale from Pomona, where he was a leading washing machine merchant. Prior to that he was commercial manager for the Texas Power & Light company at Dallas. With him are his wife and son, who are all well versed in the explanation of electrical appliances.

Mr. Cox, an electrical engineer, is qualified to explain just how much the cost of operation or any other information relative to the use of electricity that prospective purchasers may desire to know. He built up an enormous business for the Texas Power and Light company, it is said.

Housekeeping a Business

He claims the world's greatest business today is housekeeping. There are few husbands who would tolerate the inconvenience in their store, office or factory, that their wives suffer in the home.

Mr. Cox says, give her a washing machine and a vacuum cleaner and you will soon notice a difference in the home.

The women of today realize that putting the management of the house on a business basis is truly practical. And why? Because she has come to a point where she is overwhelmed with work. This state of affairs is not likely to improve at all unless women install labor saving devices.

Women are being called on more every day for charitable and civic work, the women who have "electrical homes" to relieve them of household burdens are the ones who can answer these calls and do the most work.

Know Value of Machinery

Men are more easily convinced of the value of electrical appliances in doing housework than are women. They have seen machinery do their work for years and they know that the theory of efficient management can be practically applied to housework as well as to shop and office.

Every home a household of electrical appliances is the main thought expressed by Mr. Cox. During the month of September the Glendale Hardware company's Good Housekeeping department is presenting to the people in Glendale an opportunity which in itself is very attractive. Read about it in the advertisement columns of The Evening News today.

PIANIST STARTS GLENDALE STUDIO

Miss Clara Wolter to Teach Classes in Music at Her North Orange Home

Miss Clara Wolter, pianist and teacher, has come from Missoula, Montana, to make her home with her mother, Mrs. Hilda Wolter, and other members of her family at 312 North Orange street, and Glendalians will be interested in the announcement that she is to open her school for artistic piano playing Monday, September 17.

In Missoula Miss Wolter was connected with the advanced piano work in the music department of the University of Montana, serving as an instructor for four years. In addition to her piano work she is a talented organist.

Miss Wolter has had wide study and teaching experience. She received her training from such world masters as C. H. Sippell, E. B. Fleck and Leopold Godowsky. She has taught in Oregon and for sixteen years in Seattle, Washington.

Musical pedagogy has been one of her specialties and she is offering an interesting course for any wishing to train for teaching. She uses the Leschetzsky system of technique.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL PLANT DELAYED

Slow Delivery of Steel and Mill Work Responsible, Builders' Claim

Regret that the new high school plant on the southeast corner of Verdugo road and Broadway was not ready for the opening of school this week was expressed by George Mettry, superintendent for the North Pacific Construction Company.

The plant would have been completed by September 25, as scheduled, in the opinion of Mr. Mettry if it had not been for an unexpected delay of about three months in the delivery of steel girders for the auditorium and an equally unexpected delay of about two months in the delivery of mill work.

Two of the buildings in the connected group are being completed this week. As soon as the millwork arrives, the remaining cabinets will be built in the household arts building, which lies along Verdugo road. With the exception of the last coat of interior finish, the science building, which lies to the east of the main building, is completed.

Rushing Finish Work

Work on the administration building is being rushed to completion. The ceiling of the main corridor, across the front of the building, is being plastered. When this has been done, the cement floor will be laid. The administrative ofices, in the front of the building, have been plastered and are now ready for the wood work.

The hardwood floor is being laid in the main study hall which is 35 feet wide and 100 feet long. This also needs flooring. Both rooms, neither of which have had windows installed yet, lie just east of the central courtyard in order that pupils at study may have plenty of light.

Roofing Auditorium

The auditorium, which is one of the largest in Southern California, is now being roofed. When the board roof is finished it will be topped by a composition roof. The ceiling will be paneled. The roof is supported by steel girders. Walls are of thick re-inforced concrete and the floor will be of cement.

Allan Pollock of 419 West Park avenue, president of last semester's graduating class, "inspected" the new paint Tuesday afternoon and expressed his amazement at the size of the auditorium which is 90 feet wide and 120 feet deep and will have a space of 40 feet from floor to ceiling. The stage, which will be 75 feet wide, 35 feet deep and 50 feet high, will have a curtain opening about 50 feet wide and 25 feet high. A niche has been built on either side of the building near the stage for the installation of organ pipes.

The completion of the auditorium is expected by Mr. Mettry by the first of next month.

Working Until December

The completion of the auditorium is expected by Mr. Mettry by the first of December. He added that the installation of seats probably would require about three weeks longer. He hopes to have the rest of the main building ready by the first of next month.

The heating plan is partially completed. Two huge boilers have been ready for some time and the steam radiators are now being installed in the household arts and science buildings. The thirty-six inch flues leading to the auditorium balcony are in place, but the flues for the main floor have not been connected yet.

Wiring is now finished with the exception of the necessary wiring in the ceiling of the auditorium. Contract for the purchase and installation of electric fixtures has not been awarded. Painters and roofers are busy, however.

William J. Bryan Is Big Attraction Here

The interest that William Jennings Bryan has aroused during the past year by his controversy with various learned men all over the country regarding the acceptance or rejection of the Darwinian theory is reflected strongly in the eagerness with which the people of Glendale are buying tickets for his lecture at the Tuesday Afternoon club house auditorium on Saturday night, September 15.

The lecture is given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Methodist church. Apart from his drawing power as a lecturer on his chosen subject, "Science Versus Religion," Bryan ranks as one of the figures in the national life who has stood out head and shoulders above most of his contemporaries.

A superhuman strength will tower. When we respect a higher power.

Prince Regent of Japan On Pilgrimage to Fuji, Empire's Sacred Shrine

Mount Fuji, which is believed to have been one center of the terrestrial disturbances which have wrought havoc in Tokio and Yokohama and innumerable smaller cities of Japan, holds a strangely mysterious grip on the hearts of Japanese of high and low caste. An admixture of fear and affection, a reverence inspired, perhaps, by terror, perhaps by religious fervor, has inspired the Japanese people to regard this snow capped, extinct volcano as a shrine; a potent influence in their daily lives; an all-powerful deity, to which toll in the form of pilgrimages and other symbols of tribute are paid by millions of devout worshippers each year.

"Fuji-San," or "Mr. Fuji," is the favorite theme of poets and painters, the cynosure of all who are religious or serious-minded.

Fuji—the Peerless—crowning the mightiest of the five veins, which centuries ago burgeoned and belched forth the islands that now comprise Japan, cradles in his towering summit one extreme of the volcanic vein that runs northward under the most expansive plain of Japan, on which stands the stricken capital, Tokio.

The appended article was written by Duke N. Parry, Tokio correspondent of International News Service, just prior to the devastating series of temblors, tidal waves and typhoon, which wrecked the empire's two chief cities and resulted in the loss of thousands of lives.

Mr. Parry was the only American newspaper correspondent present.

By DUKE N. PARRY
For International News Service

TOKIO (By Mail)—Hirohito, Prince Regent of Japan, left off the affairs of state in Tokio recently, joined the ranks of hundreds of his subjects high and low, and became for a day a pilgrim to Fujiyama, mountain sacred to all Japanese. Scarce a single Japanese there is who has not been told of "Fuji-san"—Mt. Fuji—in childhood. But never before has a child of the empire been promised the opportunity to see a number of the imperial family ascending the mountain. Fujiyama is 12,365 feet high—a thousand feet for every month in the year, a foot for every day—so the Japanese will tell you. And to climb the sacred mountain is well nigh a necessity to the Japanese of religious or even serious turn of mind.

Fujiyama is located in Shizuoka province of Japan, the nearest town of any size being Gotemba, which is some miles from the mountain's base. To reach the mountain one must travel a half day by train from Tokio, motor to Subashiri, a tiny village at the base of the mountain, and then begin the ascent. Now, climbing Fuji is all right to one used to hard exercise, but never before have the Japanese people even thought of a member of the imperial family making such a trip. It involves a hard ride on horseback to the eighth station, which is 10,000 feet high, and a climb on foot to the top, the climb being made over dangerous mountain passes and frequently on a grade which is wearing to even the most physically fit.

Dulce N. Parry

Far East Manager of International News Service Who Trudged from Tokio to Yokohama During the Earthquake and Fire to Bring Out the First American Eye-witness Account of the World's Greatest Tragedy. His Clothes Were Burned and Feet Blistered, His Personal Possessions Swept Away, but He Kept Sending Reports Until Edna Lee Booker Arrived at Kobe from Shanghai.

People Surprised

Thus Japanese and foreigners alike were surprised when the department of the imperial household announced the plans for the prince regent's trip. All of Japan, from every section of which there go pilgrims to Fuji each year, was interested in the trip, and in Subashiri, used to the ordinary pilgrim, there was sensation in every word of the announcement.

Their prince regent coming to make the climb up Fuji! Truly the great mountain, loved by the people of the empire, had come into its own with such an announcement. Subashiri, local officials and the entire community prepared for the welcome and resolved that there should be no flaw in the program which greeted the imperial party.

As a consequence, when the advance group from Tokio, including as the only American correspondent the representative of the International News Service, reached Subashiri on the night before the time set for the prince regent to begin his climb, the entire village at the base of the great mountain was en fete. The prince regent had already arrived on the imperial train and was resting at the villa of a baron nearby. His Imperial Highness was scheduled to sleep until 3 o'clock in the morning and then proceed through Subashiri to the sacred mountain. Bunting and gay flags of Japan decorated the streets of the little village, and on all sides were the residents of the place, eager and waiting for any news of the imperial party, and searching the skies for fear of rain.

Visitors were told that they must proceed up to the top several hours before the imperial party began its climb. The prince regent was to climb at 4 o'clock in the morning, so those who desired to be on the summit when he arrived were forced to ride and walk all night. At each of the nine stations on the way to the tenth, or summit house, there were evidences on this particular night of preparations for welcoming the imperial visitor. The old keeper of the first station, teapot in hand, spoke with more than ordinary interest when he offered the pilgrim a second cup of tea. He watched the careless guest who dopped a tissue wrapper from a caramel on the floor of the hut. So it was at each of the nine stations. Rest stations—clean little shrines in the corner of each station bearing new candles, and all about the room members of an eager, expectant crowd.

Gala Reception

Reaching the top of the mountain at 8 o'clock in the morning, following a night of horseback riding or walking, the visitor from Tokio was met by an unusual sight on the top of the great mountain, which is one of the most noted extinct volcanoes in the world. Flags of Japan, bunting everywhere, and a crowd of officials and police were on hand busily at work on the final arrangements for the welcome of the imperial party. Word had been passed on by pilgrims beginning the descent that the mountain top would be closed after 9 o'clock, and that those who wished to be on hand when the prince regent arrived must hurry. The summit of the mountain is, in reality, a series of peaks surrounding the crater of the volcano, the volcano itself being about 2000 feet in diameter. On the edge of the crater is an open level space about 300 feet long by 200 feet wide. Here it was that the officials had designated should be the place of official welcome to the imperial party.

Shortly before 11 o'clock a shout from the distance announced that His Imperial Highness had reached the top of the mountain and would soon appear to receive the welcome of his subjects. Three hundred people, including fifty boys from the Nakaezumi School for Boys, in Shizuoka, and the Omiyo Agricultural School, were there to give "banzais" for the Prince Regent, and the governor of the province was overseeing the preparations for welcoming His Imperial Highness.

A group of coolies walked over the road which the imperial party was to take and cleared the last signs of any scraps of paper or other rubbish out of the way, and a few moments later the first of the Prince Regent's group came into sight.

The heir to the Japanese throne was preceded by Mr. Mixuno, an official of the Police department of Gotemba. As he walked across the open space on the edge of the volcano crater, the Prince Regent appeared to be merely taking a hike across an open stretch of country. Showing no signs of fatigue, His Imperial Highness made a smiling gesture at the stretcher which preceded him and which had been carried for use in case of need. Those who had seen the Prince Regent in Tokio, at formal functions and passing to and from the imperial palace to the station, were impressed at the absolute lack of formality exhibited by this future emperor of Japan. Wearing a pith helmet, an English sport suit and giving bows for the various shouts of his subjects, Hirohito appeared to enjoy his jaunt immensely.

Across the mountain top and down a hill to the Okumiya Shrine, where His Imperial Highness paid his respects, and the trip of inspection of the mountain was nearly over. Rest on the mountain and a light tiffin took up the remainder of the three hours which the Prince Regent spent on the summit. The downward journey was begun shortly after 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Prince Regent's visit is now a thing of the past as far as the department of the Imperial Household is concerned. The great event of 1923 is the wedding which is planned for the Prince Regent and the Princess Nagako for late November. But at Subashiri the imperial wedding will fade into insignificance when compared with the great event of recent date.

Railway Traffic Now Heaviest in History

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—The railroads of the United States are carrying the heaviest traffic in their history, are handling it without congestion and with a surplus of cars, according to Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the executive committee of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific company.

"There has never been a period in railroad history," Kruttschnitt said today, "when the railroads have been getting as much out of their equipment as they are doing now.

"In the last week of August they handled the largest amount of traffic in any week of their existence. Heretofore the traffic peak has come in October, but I can remember four different weeks already this year during which traffic has exceeded that of any previous week in October."

Truckee River Road to Be Interstate Highway

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 14.—The controversy over the routing of the state highway from Truckee to the Nevada state line was settled Thursday after a long standing dispute when the California highway commission formally approved the Truckee river road and authorized the engineers to prepare plans and specifications for a six-mile unit between Floriston and the Nevada boundary.

Harvey Toy, chairman of the highway board, declared that the commission hopes to start actual construction of the road by next spring.

"We have formally decided in favor of the Truckee river road and against the Dog Valley grade," asserted Toy, "and the work will be started as soon as the plans and specifications are properly prepared and approved."

A searchlight may not penetrate a man's heart, but a slight friction often exposes it.

Heart and Home — Health and Happiness

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

FEEDING THE CHILD THE FRST YEAR

Directions For the Diet From 6 to 12 Months, No. V

WEANING

You are feeding your baby regularly every four hours now, at 6, 10, 2, 6 and 10 o'clock. By the ninth month it is usually best to begin to wean the baby. If the ninth month happens to be in very hot summer weather, it may be advisable to wait until it is cooler, or to wean a little slower.

Begin the first week of the ninth month by omitting the nursing at the 2 p. m. feeding. Give eight ounces of half milk and half water boiled together for three or four minutes. Use no sugar. Increase the milk one tablespoonful and decrease the water the same amount every day until whole milk is given; no sugar need be added.

The second week omit the 10 a. m. nursing also, and give eight ounces of milk, the strength you have worked up to.

The third week omit the 6 p. m. nursing as well, and the fourth week the 6 a. m. nursing, too, giving the milk instead. By the tenth or eleventh month omit the 10 p. m. nursing. This gradual weaning will cause no disturbances whatever.

If the baby has been a bottle-fed baby you can begin by the eighth month gradually to decrease the water or the gruel in the formula, and the sugar, until whole milk is being taken some time during the ninth month. Be careful of its purity. Certified is best.

MENUS

I will give a table of feeding next Friday. The exact amounts your baby will finally eat will depend upon his age, activities and size, and you yourself will have to find out just how much he will be able to take. But the first food you must give in tiny amounts, as I have directed, and you must increase it in tiny amounts. Otherwise you may cause a digestive disturbance.

With the foundation of at least twenty-four ounces of milk, the other foods will have to be increased or decreased from the amount I have stated, depending upon the baby's well-being and his weight. If he does not gain the normal amount (at least four ounces) you must increase the number of calories of his food. If he gains too much, you must decrease the amount. Overweight and underweight are alike undesirable.

Begin to feed from the cup the last part of the first year; otherwise you will have difficulty in weaning the baby from his bottle. The bottle need not, and should not, be given after the first year.

If your baby is malnourished or ill, or artificially fed, mothers, he should be under a specialist's care, either in private practice or at the baby clinics. It is even difficult at times for a specialist to feed these unfortunate children properly.

Next Friday, Table of Feeding the First Year.

With the Women of Today

Miss K. L. Abercrombie of Lewiston, Idaho, was the first woman in Idaho to preside over the house when it was resolved into the committee of the whole. She was appointed on the appropriatiton committee, also, being the first woman to serve on this committee in the Idaho legislature.

Miss Abercrombie is a Democrat and the representative of Nez Perce county. Her parents came from the state of Georgia, but Miss Abercrombie received her education in the schools of Texas and Oklahoma. Very early in life she taught school, but later took a position in the business world.

Before the granting of national suffrage Miss Abercrombie was not much interested in woman suffrage, but "the great need of thinking women to help with this new power and the training thereof became an item not to be ignored," she says, and she at once laid aside her personal disinclination to vote and took upon herself her share of responsibility in helping women to understand their duties and responsibilities as well as privileges under the new law. For this work she associated herself with the National League of Women Voters.

Miss Abercrombie was elected to the Idaho legislature in November, 1922, getting the largest vote of any candidate in the district. She was the first woman in the Idaho body to receive appointment on the appropriation committee, and also the first to preside over the house when it was resolved into the committee of the whole. Members of the Democratic party are insisting that she become a candidate for congress from North Idaho in 1924.

INDIA'S DELEGATES

There were four Indian delegates to the recent congress of the International Alliance for Woman Suffrage in Rome. They were: Mrs. Patwardhan, Miss Tata, Mrs. Tata and Mrs. Dube.

FRENCH SUFFRAGE LEADER

Madame De Witt Schlumberger, president of the French Suffrage Union and vice-president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, recently returned to Paris after attending the congress of the International Alliance at Rome. Madame Schlumberger is the mother of six children and her son-in-law as well as her five sons served in the war. She has nineteen grandchildren.

WOMEN SHERIFFS

Orange county, New York, has four women duputy sheriffs, all of whom wear badges.

SUFFRAGE IN INDIA

Campaigns in Bengal and Behar, India, have resulted in women getting the municipal vote.

NURSING STANDARDS

The adoption of standard nursing requirements for the Red Cross has had the effect of bringing up nursing standards in various institutions, according to Miss Clara D. Noyes, the national director of the Red Cross nursing service. The Red Cross maintains no school of nursing, but enrolls graduate nurses from other schools who come up to the standards of the Red Cross service. The American Red Cross has enrolled 40,000 graduate nurses.

Beauty Chats

By Edna Kent Forbes

TREATING THE HAIR

I've given my favorite formula for a hair tonic to—well, literally thousands of my readers. It's a highly stimulating, general tonic, which should make the hair grow, come in thicker, stop dandruff and prevent premature grayness—which is certainly all one can ask of a tonic! Where the hair is naturally too oily, it may not make it drier; that's because it is so very stimulating. But more frequent shampoos, or occasional dry shampoos, will remedy such a condition.

But some women need a certain sort of tonic for only one slight trouble. So here are some suggestions for special ills:

For thick, stubborn dandruff: Crude oil, thick and black, heated as hot as you can stand it, rubbed and rubbed and rubbed into the scalp, and allowed to stay on twelve hours before being shampooed.

For blonde hair: Resorcin, 40 grains; witch hazel, 1½ ounces.

For very dark hair: Tar water. Buy an ounce of tar (drug stores sell it; "pitch," one man called it). Put it in a jar, pour on a quart of hot water, let cool, and a day later pour off the water. Massage a little into the scalp, out in the sun if you can, for the hair dries easily then and benefits by the sun bath.

Rhubarb water is good for blonde hair, made by boiling rhubarb without sugar, pouring off the water, diluting it with the same amount of water later, using to wash and rinse the hair in. But rinse finally with clear water and dry whenever you can in the sun. Lemon juice in the rinse water brightens blonde hair, too, and dries up oiliness. One big lemon is quite enough to use in a basin of hot water, followed by a final cold rinse.

A. M. K.: As you seem to have failed in tinting your hair, although you have tried sage tea, walnut stain and henna shampoo, I am inclined to think that you did not understand how to do the work. I will be glad to mail you directions for using henna if you request it and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The permanent wave does not appear to hurt the hair, because it is only done when the hair's texture will stand it. The reliable people who do this work give expert advice.

Have you a good tonic?

Lilian: Remove the callous spots on the soles of the feet by using a pumice stone, after first softening the skin through bathing in hot water. There are sanitary files sold for this purpose, also.

Tomorrow—Common Sense

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Tomato catsup recipes vary so much that I am giving the following different ones, for my reader friends to choose from:

Old-Time Tomato Catsup—Boil one bushel of ripe tomatoes with skins on and when soft strain through a colander to remove the skins. Now mix together one pound of brown sugar, one cup of salt, two tablespoons each of ground cinnamon, allspice, mace and celery seed and stir this mixture into the tomatoes. Add two quarts of cider vinegar, stir well together then strain all through a sieve to eliminate the liquid part (that is, the part that runs through easily). Put this liquid into an agate kettle and boil it slowly till reduced one-half, then mix it with the other (thicker) part of the catsup and turn all into sterilized bottles. Cork tightly and dip bottle neck into melted paraffine . (To sterilize a bottle boil it, empty, in clear water for fifteen minutes.)

To Make a Small Quantity of Tomato Catsup—Skin a gallon of ripe tomatoes by pouring boiling water over them, then rubbing off the skins with your fingers. Let them cool before putting them into an agate or enamelware kettle with four tablespoons of salt, one teaspoon ground black pepper, two teaspoons of ground mustard and one-half teaspoon of ground allspice. Also add six red pepper pods, mash all together as much as possible, and bring to the boiling point over low heat; let simmer till the tomatoes are tender (adding a very little hot water if necessary to keep from burning). Then thin the mixture with one pint of vinegar (or enough to allow it to be strained through a sieve) and return the strained liquid to the kettle to boil for fifteen minutes longer. Turn while hot into warm, sterilized bottles, and seal cork and paraffine as directed above.

Tomato - Onion Catsup — Boil one-half bushel of ripe tomatoes for forty minutes, then press through a wide-meshed sieve to eliminate skins. Put this pulpy liquid back into the preserving kettle with eighteen peeled and finely chopped onions, one ounce each of ground mace, cloves and salt, and add one tablespoon each of black pepper and ground mustard. (These spices must be pounded together and tied up in a muslin bag.) Boil all for five hours, when it should be thick enough to allow the addition of one-half pint of vinegar to each quart. (Add the vinegar after the catsup is cold, then bottle and seal as above directed.)

A certain painter is confined in an asylum, says Art Record. To persons who visit him he says:

"Look at this; it is my latest masterpiece."

They look, and see nothing but an expanse of bare canvas. They ask:

"What does that represent "

"That? Why, that represents the passage of the Israelites through the Red Sea."

"Beg pardon, but where is the sea?"

"It has been driven back."

"And where are the Israelites?"

"They have crossed over."

"And the Egyptians?"

"Will be here directly. That's the sort of painting I like—simple and unpretentious."

We are deeply dismayed by the latest news from London—news of an international importance. It happens to strike close home. The news is that the dinner jacket, or, as Americans call it, "Tuxedo," has passed entirely out of style, and all men of fashion now wear tail coats in the evening for every sort of function. Recently it was noted that during the supper hour at the Savoy not a dinner coat was to be seen. We take this as a personal grievance. Only about a month ago we went and bought a dinner jacket with a swell satin collar, and we paid $38.75 for the outfit, which, of course, is now just money thrown away. The old tail coat was legislated out of existence a year ago by the moths. We hardly know what to do about this, but we have a word of cheer from the gentlemen down in the basement of our house who presses clothing. He claims he can fasten a couple of tails onto this dinner jacket, but, of course, the grafting point will always show. The life of a man of fashion is cluttered up with difficulties, because, of course, if dinner jackets are taboo in London, far be it from us—.

POEMS That LIVE

THE NYMPH'S SONG TO HYLAS

I know a little garden close
Set thick with illy and red rose,
Where I would wander if I might
From dewy dawn to dewy night,
And have one with me wandering.

And though within it no birds sing,
And though no pillar'd house is there,
And though the apple boughs are bare
Of fruit and blossom, would to God
Her feet upon the green grass trod.
And I beheld them as before!

There comes a murmur from the shore,
And in the place two fair streams are,
Drawn from the purple hills afar,
Drawn down unto the restless sea;
The hills whose flowers ne'er fed the bee,
The shore no ship has ever seen,
Still beaten by the billows green,
Whose murmur comes unceasingly
Unto the place for which I cry.

For which I cry both day and night,
For which I let slip all delight,
That maketh me both deaf and blind,
Careless to win, unskilled to find,
And quick to lose what all men seek.

Yet tottering as I am, and weak,
Still have I left a little breath
To seek within the jaws of death
An entrance to that happy place;
To seek the unforgotten face
Once seen, once kiss'd, once reft from me
Anigh the murmuring of the sea.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of fifteen and have been questioning for some time whether to go back to school this fall. Last June I failed in two subjects, but I have made one up. But still I cannot enter high school to be called a high school student until I finish my one eighth grade subject. This is very discouraging to me, as I feel that I am too old for a freshman as it is. I will be sixteen soon after school starts. Do you think I am too old?

My failing is due to illness during the winter, as I studied and tried to make my grade. I can get work in town, as I am very handy with a needle and do fine sewing for others. I would not have to work, but I could not stand it to be idle. There are also three others who failed, but all boys, and I am older than they. What shall I do?

My parents feel badly about this, as they have had and want me to have a good education, but I am so discouraged I feel that I could not study if I go back.

It was not my fault in the subject that I failed and did not make up. The teacher that failed me had a grudge against me and told me face to face. But I have my final papers and exam papers to prove my good standing, but she ignores them and says it is my own fault. I cannot understand why she does this as I had always thought a lot of this teacher. When she turned on me I did not do anything to provoke her.

DISCOURAGED.

Continue with your education even if it means you have to proudly bear the humiliation of failure and being older than the rest. Don't let others see that you feel out of place. Of course, you need further education, and when you get into high school I believe you will be very happy there.

Probably if your father takes the matter up with the principal at high school and at grammar school some way can be arranged whereby you will be able to enter high school and make up the eighth grade subject without attending grammar school another year. At least it would be worth your father's effort to talk the matter over and see what can be done.

Your whole life will be so much richer if you go through with the ordeal ahead of you and get your education.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can you teli me what will remove white spots caused by hot dishes from a varnished surface? I also have a silence cloth on my dining table and the heat from the dishes has caused the nap to stick to the varnish. Will anything remove this?

I have noticed a preparation for oily hair, but failed to cut it out. Will you please repeat it?

Which is correct, to chew food with the mouth closed or open?

CONSTANT READER.

Boiling water poured onto the white spot and immediately removed with a dry linen towel will remove white spots caused by hot dishes. Try to remove the nap which was left from the silence cloth with warm water and a smooth rag. In the future use asbestos pads under the hot dishes.

The following is a tonic for oily hair: Tincture of alcoholic cantharides, one dram; tincture of capsicum, one-half dram; tincture of nux vomica, two drams; cocoa oil, three-quarters of an ounce; alcohol, two and one-half ounces. Shake before using. Massage nightly into the scalp with the finger tips.

Naturally food should be eaten with the mouth closed. To leave the mouth open is repulsive.

Princess Denies Intent To Murder Her Sheik

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Madame Marie Marguerite Fahmy, on trial for the murder of her rich young Egyptian husband, Prince Ali Kamil Fahmy, testified today she did not intend to kill her husband when she pointed a pistol at him in their luxurious apartment in the Savoy hotel.

"He had been threatening my life and I only wanted to scare him. I thought the sight of the pistol might frighten him away. He was reaching out to choke me when it exploded."

Seagulls have followed the same ship from the Irish coast to New York, a distance of 2,560, according to records.

Two Warm Hearts to Welcome Him

—the other one is the "glowing heart" of the LAWSON Odorless—the room heater with the inner combustion chamber that sends out radiant heat, makes a room cozily warm in no time.

Different from all other gas stoves! No open flame! No stuffy, devitalized room atmosphere! Operates on the radiant heat principle—like the sun.

Its strong rays penetrate, without overheating, the air you breathe. Heat is not carried to the ceiling.

Consumes all the gas, at high temperature. No fuel waste—and absolutely no odor. Heats from both sides.

Compact; takes up little space, yet gives out more heat than ordinary gas stoves of two or three times its size and price. Costs less to buy and less to operate.

Try the LAWSON Odorless—for health, for economy, for its ample, cheery warmth. You can heat the whole house with these powerful little heating marvels. An economical size for largest to smallest room.

Come in! Let us demonstrate the LAWSON Odorless.

TUJUNGA

ROAD COMMITTEE NAMED BY C. OF C.

Two Districts Represented in Controversy Over Street Improvements

Fourteen men have been appointed by Judge Breidt, president of the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce to serve as a committee on road improvement work for the coming year. This appointment is the outgrowth of controversy over the paving of two of Tujunga's main thoroughfares, Monte Vista boulevard and El Centro street.

The committee men, who are supposed to be representative of the two territories involved, are as follows: Harry Zachau, D. E. Mills, William B. Pond, Monte Vista boulevard boosters; George Slusher, Dr. Lowell C. Frost, A. H. La Rue, Dr. E. M. Spates, El Centro street boosters; Leo Forster, R. Shersby, Clarence C. Buck, Wallace M. Morgan, Frank O. Hough, affiliations doubtful or unknown.

Everett C. Carlson and Edward Forster, members of the standing road committee, will serve on the special committee, and the committee of the whole will hold the first meeting on the call of Mr. Forster.

This committee will determine the relative values of claims for street improvement work and prepare, as nearly as possible, an equable program for the county supervisor's approval.

Study Fire District

Members of the chamber of commerce committee who attended the hearing of fire district petitions in Los Angeles made arrangements at the time to have Secretary Hugh Pomeroy of the county regional planning commission visit Tujunga and go over the transportation problem at close range and also the matter of the proposed road into Big Tujunga canyon. Accordingly, Mr. Pomeroy spent a day in going over the ground and plans with the committee. Nothing definite was decided upon at the time. The proposed skyline boulevard was discussed, as were plans for connecting Monte Vista boulevard with the Big Tujunga canyon road as the only logical route to be followed.

Some slight attention was given to the question of improving Los Angeles street through to Hansen street in the Hansen Heights tract west of Sunland. This matter is considered as somewhat out of the territory represented by the Tujunga committee, however.

A rough outline of the boulevard proposed to connect with the Foothill boulevard brings it into Tujunga at Hillcrest drive to Haines canyon road, to Fairview, to the entrance to Big Tujunga at the junction of Monte Vista boulevard and the canyon road.

Other important work will delay the progress of the survey of the canyon road, according to attaches of the county surveyor's office. No definite plan has been drawn as to the route the new road will follow or how far it will be run into the canyon, but it is probable that a higher level will be followed than the present road.

As there are no funds available at the present time for construction work on the road, the survey is all that will be undertaken at this time, Supervisor Wright stated to the committee.

Will Hold Election

On the first Monday in next month a new board of directors will be elected for the Tujunga cemetery association. This day has been set as the annual meeting date and anyone who pays ten dollars toward the purchase price of a plot in the cemetery or who contributes a similar sum to the treasury will be entitled to membership in the association and to a vote at the meeting.

It is the hope and plan of the association to make substantial improvements in the cemetery north of town and a large membership is sought. All funds collected will be used for the care and improvement of the grounds.

Tomorrow evening at 7:30 there will be a meeting at the new Laura Lee Sweet studio on Michigan avenue for the purpose of organizing the Artists and Authors Guild. Plans will also be completed at that time for an entertainment to be given the Glendale Art Association at an early date. The Guild is not for artists and authors exclusively, but for anyone interested in either art or literature.

Sells Out Business

A. B. Guizell, for several months proprietor of the Day and Night garage on Michigan avenue, has sold his business to P. H. White and E. B. Day of Omaha, Nebraska. The new owners intend to maintain a battery charging station in connection with the oil and gas station and garage.

Coke's place at the corner of Walnut drive and Michigan avenue has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Willis, formerly of Decatur, Illinois. They have taken the Thompson house on Los Angeles street for their home and will conduct the refreshment stand formerly run by Mr. Cole, who is going to his ranch near Tulare.

Leo L. Lang, former Deputy fire warden of the district who has reformed and gone in for real estate, has sold his home at 509 East Monte Vista boulevard and will very probably locate in either Glendale or Eagle Rock, where he has property, in the near future.

Mr. Lang has been active in public affairs in Tujunga, including Boy Scout work, of which organization he is an officer and has many friends, who will regret his leaving. He is at present occupied in marketing a subdivision at Long Beach, having sold his insurance brokerage to James Blaine, who also succeeded him as Deputy Fire Warden.

Quarters Will Be Enlarged To Accommodate Full Company, Is Plan

Orders have been placed for a large amount of additional fire fighting apparatus for Engine No. 42, including a triple combination truck, according to Chief Davis, in charge of this section of the Los Angeles fire department.

The present quarters, enlargement of which has been contemplated for some time, are actually to be expanded so as to accommodate an entire company, Chief Davis states. By the time the new apparatus arrives, the construction work on the rear of the City Hall will be finished.

Vaudeville Show Ahoy!

Psst! There's an American Legion vaudeville show in the offing. At a recent meeting of the Auxiliary, details were perfected for a first-class show and dance at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse, the night of October 12.

The members of the Auxiliary have put Mrs. Hammond in charge of the sale of candy and Mrs. Witcher will preside over the flowing bowl, while Mrs. Rose will be chief program preparer.

Local folks are urged to mark October 12 in their date book in red ink. The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held at the Angelo Bessolo home, 155 Ellenwood drive, Thursday, September 20, when Legionnaires will be present and work out final details for the big fun rally.

cat's tail. He spilled the soup.

The professor had avoided the accident by making his exit. We induced him to try one more place, after profuse apologies.

But, lo, there on the wall was a sign that read: "The hot dogs served here are raised on the premises, in our own kennels."

More apologies. Three days later, hatless, coatless, 'spender buckles glinting in the California sunshine, Prof. Zantippe dashed into the editoreadorial sanctum, all exuberant like. He hooted:

"I have discovered that in Glendale the cost of high living is far less than the high cost of living."

Omigosh! Had the professor's troubles affected his processes of cerebration?

"How come?" we demanded.

"I am living in the air now," he explained. "Mrs. Zantippe and myself and all the little "Tippies" are living far above Glendale, where the glorious breezes of the Pacific waft to our nostrils all day long the fragrance of the flowers and fruits, where we can see the Green Verdugo hills, the glorious Mount Hollywood and its Griffith park—yea, verily, even Catalina island."

"You mean that new subdivision?" we started to inquire.

"No, we are living above Glendale in a balloon," the professor concluded.

We thought the professor had been up in the air all the time, anyway!

Luncheon Marks Opening of Season; Year's Program Outlined at Meet

The Women's Club opened its fall season Tuesday noon with a luncheon served by the needlework section. In the afternoon a business session was held, as a result of which Mrs. Harry J. Valentine, chairman of the program committee, states that tentative programs for the year are made out and include some very fine speakers who will address the members on educational subjects.

These will embrace travel lectures, together with talks on civic and national problems, as well as excellent musical events that every club member will want to attend. The program meetings are held on the fourth Tuesday of each month, states Mrs. Valentine.

Two new members have been voted into the club, Mrs. J. F. Baughman and Mrs. V. M. Crause.

A large number of replies to the questionnaire sent out regarding exhibits for the fall festival are being received by Mrs. Wilson, the interest shown being most gratifying.

Burbank's Growth Shown

Dr. E. J. Inwood, district superintendent of the Methodist church, graphically portrayed the astonishing growth of this city in the past seven years, at the fourth quarterly conference of the local church, held a week ago tonight.

Analysis of the report turned in by Dr. Inwood, covering his seven years as superintendent of the Los Angeles district, shows that at the present time the Burbank Methodist church has a membership of 425, as contrasted with a membership of but 150 seven years ago.

The Sunday school, seven years ago, had an enrollment of 245, he states. Today the enrollment is 500. Seven years ago, the report of benevolences showed a total of $91. Today the figure stands at $834 for the past year.

But most startling of all are the records of increased valuation. Seven years ago the church property was appraised at $3,600. Today it is appraised at $75,000, an increase of over 2,000 per cent in seven years.

"Vinegar" With a Wallop

He claimed it was vinegar—but oh, the difference: R. C. McCaleb and wife, driving an automobile along San Fernando boulevard on a recent night, sans lights, were apprehended by an officer of the law, who at once noticed that certain odors were percolating around his nostrils, their source evidently some part of the rear of said automobile.

Investigation disclosed three barrels of "white mule," which McCaleb insisted were vinegar. But when he and his fifty odd gallons of trinitrotoluol, fusel oil, liquid barbed wire and formaldehyde were haled into court, the contrite offender broke down and sobbed like a child, admitting his error.

The exact extent of the whiskey, as well as the fine, will be determined later. McCaleb rested his contrite frame overnight in the city jail, while his wife was given lodgings in a local hotel.

LA CRESCENTA

SCHOOL TO OPEN NEXT MONDAY

Students From Montrose to Pursue Studies in La Crescenta

The Los Angeles avenue school will open here on Monday morning and all parents of La Crescenta and Montrose are requested to see that their children are on time and have all the necessary information for their enrollment.

On account of the building in Montrose not being completed, pupils from that district will attend in La Crescenta probably till the first of next month, and as the two additional rooms in La Crescenta are not yet completed; tables and other equipment will be put in the auditorium for their use.

Although it is expected three hundred children will be enrolled, no doubt Monday will show an increase in these figures, as many new families have moved here during the summer and the majority of them have children of grade school age.

There have been appointed 7 teachers for La Crescenta and 2 for Montrose school. Should the registration prove greater than expected more teachers will be added as necessary.

Short Sessions Likely

No doubt half sessions will be in order for a short time till the new rooms are ready, although no schedule to that effect has as yet been worked out. The teachers will hold a meeting on Saturday to discuss preliminary details.

Teachers assigned to the different grades are as follows: Eighth Grade and Principal, Albert Blanford, formerly Athletic supervisor of grade schools in Glendale; Seventh grade, Mrs. Flora A. Mueller; Sixth grade, Miss Isabel A. King; Fifth grade, Miss Agnes Rasmussen; Third and Fourth grades in La Crescenta school, Miss Sarah Conlin; First grade La Crescenta, Mrs. Idu H. Greenberg; Second and Third grade, Montrose, Mrs. Esther T. Eyre; First grade, Montrose, Mrs. Edith M. Boyer.

Miss Stella Wieman of Tujunga will visit the school two and a half days a week as school nurse.

W. H. Ainger of La Crescenta, will have charge of the sloyd department. Mr. Ainger is considered practically the best teacher of sloyd in Los Angeles, where he is employed in the city schools, and it is a pleasure to La Crescenta parents to know he has been able to arrange his time so as to give this school two afternoons a week, where he will have charge of the new manual training room.

Mrs. C. W. Johnston of Los Angeles Ave. is spending the week in Long Beach.

Miss Sarah Conlin, well known resident of La Crescenta, has been appointed teacher of the third and fourth grades in the local school. Miss Conlin has lived here a number of years attending the Glendale High school and later the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

Miss Jessie Gibbs who has been the guest of Mrs. Anna Aiken for the past six weeks left for her home in Chicago this week.

TODAY—Increased Travel to Honolulu; Sugar Crop Value Enhanced; New Village in South Seas.

By IRENE CORBALLY KUHN
For International News Service

HONOLULU, Sept. 14.—That Hawaii will have a larger steady summer tourist travel this year than ever before in its history is the prediction made by George T. Armitage, secretary of the Hawaii Tourist Bureau, who returned recently from the mainland.

Armitage's prediction would seem to be well made, judging from the number of tourists who are arriving here weekly, most of the coast-islands steamers carrying a full quota of passengers for Hawaii. The Tourist Bureau secretary attributes this to the intensive advertising campaign which the bureau has been carrying on.

"We have the goods," he declared, "and it is up to us to let people know about them."

The extensive summer advertising campaign will not take away from the steady winter travel, Armitage believes.

"It has never before been understood on the mainland that Hawaii is as delightful in the summer as in the winter, and this campaign is bringing an entirely new patronage to Hawaii. The people who are coming here now are not the regular winter tourists, but those who would usually spend their regular summer vacations at mainland resorts.

Armitage declared that he had heard a great deal of talk about events that drew Hawaii into the limelight and acted as magnets for tourists. The trans-Pacific yacht race, the establishment of the new Los Angeles to Hawaii steamship line, the proposed fleet maneuvers here, the possibility of a non-stop flight from the mainland to the islands and the various round-the-world excursions have all helped.

Four round-the-world excursions will stop at Honolulu and Hilo in 1923. Three world tours made Hawaii a port of call in 1922 and 1923.

The aggregate value of Hawaii's sugar crop this year will be approximately $70,000,000, showing an increase in the revenue of the islands from this one source of nearly 40 per cent over that of last year.

Hawaii's income from exports alone will be in excess of $100,000,000 for 1923, including a pineapple pack that is expected to be worth about $25,000,000 and other smaller items of export ranging all the way from machinery and hides to ukuleles and grass skirts.

The total tonnage of raw sugar that will leave the islands this year when all of the mills will have shut down for the season is not yet known accurately, but it is certain to be in excess of 500,000 tons, the average price for which, it is believed, will be between $130 and $140 a ton for the season.

Last year's production was about 600,000 tons, or approximately 20 per cent greater than that of this year, but prices were considerably lower. The average price per ton in 1922 was $99.26.

Remarkable discoveries of ancient villages were made on Nihoa (Bird island), in the Laysan group, northwest of the Hawaiian islands, by the scientists of the U. S. S. Tanager.

The island of Nihoa was found to be terraced like the island of Necker, where the scientists have already made exhaustive studies. Numerous platforms and heiaus (Hawaiian temples) were found everywhere, including the areas terraced apparently for cultivation. A number of cairns have been found on the high peaks. It is thought that these stone mounds were used for lookouts or signal towers. Several stone bowls were picked up, but no idols were discovered.

The eastern ravine or valley was evidently the site of a large village, with a smaller settlement in the western valley, both in the vicinity of palm groves and where most of the water seepage exists.

Bird island is no misnomer, for Nihoa, according to the scientists, birds of twenty species abound. Included in these is one land bird which is probably new to science.

Radio Bill's Radiolays

By WILLIAM E. DOUGLASS

Say, in the Sunday paper what we get frum up the street, I read about a hospital that's strictly up to date. Chicago's where they're buildin' it. I guess it's mighty swell with gardens on the roof an' all just like a big hotel. There'll be a special loungin' room where those that ain't too sick can listen to an orchestra so they'll get better quick. An' fer the ones that's in their beds they've got it fixed up so without no trouble they kin listen in to Radio. Now when the wealthy broker has a major operation, he clamps the earmuffs on an' gets the latest stock quotation, while nursey dear all spic an' span, prepares the anaesthetic, some fav'rite stock may show some signs to getting energetic. Then wakin frum the ether with his durn appendix missin' the pain an' soreness is relieved if he can only listen to stock reports hot off the wire er should I say the air. Well, anyway, he's posted on conditions "bull or bear." If one is fond of music an' is sick in bed with grippe, the dainty nurse may ask you if you'd care to have her slip a pair of head receivers over your artistic ears so you can hear the yod'ling of some Alpine Mountaineers or mebbe it's an orchestra that you prefer instead, you take your choice an' tune 'em in while layin' there in bed. Believe me, if I ever have to hop right on a train as sure as my name's Bill an' hie me to that hospital equipped with Radio, cause if they're that much up to date I guess they ought to know the latest dope on medicine an' have the latest cure fer any ailment I may have. That's where I'm goin' sure. They say that if a patient is accustomed when at home to hearin' home-made lectures, then with head set on his dome, they'll tune into a station where Miss Columbine McBride tells "How to Raise a Husband" an' the patient's satisfied.—Copyright, 1923, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— By HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY SPEAKS A PIECE

"Good afternoon, Nurse Jane," said the Lady Mouse School Teacher to Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow stump bungalow. "Is Uncle Wiggily at home?"

"I think he is," answered the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Ho, Wiggy!" she called, laughing. "Come out here! You must have been impolite at school, for here's the Lady Mouse after you!"

Uncle Wiggily hopped out on the porch, twinkling his pink nose and wondering what it was all about.

"Oh, Mr. Longears!" squeaked the Lady Mouse Teacher from the Hollow Stump school, "will you kindly do me a favor?"

"If I can I shall be most delighted. "What is it?"

"Well, you know how the animal children dislike to get up on the platform and recite in public? 'Speak a piece' they call it."

"Yes, I know they don't like it," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Well, I thought perhaps if you came to our school and would recite, or speak a piece, perhaps the boys and girls wouldn't mind it so much then. Will you come to our school and speak a piece?"

"I will!" said Uncle Wiggily bravely.

"Thank you," squeaked the Lady Mouse, and when she had gone Nurse Jane said:

"What piece will you speak, Uncle Wiggily?"

"That one about the thunder crashing and the lightning flashing, I think," answered the bunny uncle. "That always sounds well and I can shout as much as I please."

"I suppose so," said Nurse Jane. "Well, I wish you luck."

So Uncle Wiggily began practicing his recitation so that, when the time came, he might do it well. Off in corners of the bungalow Nurse Jane could hear the rabbit gentleman reciting:

"The thunder rolled! and the lightning flashes, Tore in the sky great holes and gashes!"

"My goodness, if he speaks a piece that way he'll frighten the poor animal children out of their wits!" thought Nurse Jane.

But Uncle Wiggily was not yet satisfied. So he went to Uncle Butter, the goat gentleman, and said:

"Uncle Butter, I'm going to speak a piece at the Hollow Stump School on Friday afternoon. It's a piece about thunder. Now, when I come to the line—'the thunder rumbled,' I want you to do something for me. I want you to make a noise like thunder."

"But how can I?" asked the goat gentleman.

"Do it just as they do in theaters," said the bunny. "You get a big tin dishpan and when the time comes you bang on the dishpan. It will sound like thunder!"

"But the Lady Mouse Teacher will see me, and so will the animal children," objected Uncle Butter. "It won't fool them a bit."

"Yes it will," said Uncle Wiggily, "for you can hide out in the hall with the dishpan to bang, and they won't see you. Then when I speak my piece it will sound like real thunder."

"I'll do it!" promised Uncle Butter, and he was all ready, hidden in the hall near the coat closet when Uncle Wiggily got up to speak his thunder and lightning piece.

Now a little while before this the Bob Cat had slipped into the Hollow Stump School and had hidden himself in the coat closet.

"When the right time comes I'll slip out and nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears!" said the Bob Cat to himself.

The rabbit gentleman stood up to speak his piece. He made his bow, twinkled his pink nose and shouted:

"It was a terrible storm. Oh, how the thunder rumbled.——"

And just then:

"Oh, how the thunder rumbled-

"Bang! Bung! Bangity-bung-bing-bang!" went Uncle Butter on the tin dishpan close to the coat closet.

"Oh, my goodness! What a terrible storm! The lightning must have struck the school! I must get out!" howled the hidden Bob Cat, and out of the closet he ran like a trolley car.

"Oh, look! look!" cried the animal children. "Look at the Bob Cat running away!" And, oh! how fast he ran, for he thought Uncle Butter's dishpan drum was real thunder. Uncle Butter laughed, too, and so did Uncle Wiggily. And then the rabbit gentleman went on speaking his piece and when the goat gentleman made the banging noise it sounded like real thunder and the Lady Mouse Teacher and the animal children said it was just fine.

So the Bob Cat didn't get any ears after all, and if the rag doll doesn't try to play the hand organ with her foot and make the goldfish dance, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily hammering a nail.

Timely Views on World Topics

"EUROPE'S PEACE IS VITAL TO FARMERS OF U. S.," SAYS PUBLISHER

America's own economic stake in the League of Nations was emphasized by Herbert S. Houston, publisher of Our World, in a recent address.

The way to avoid domestic entanglements, Houston said was to help establish and maintain world peace not as a matter of helping Europe alone, but of helping ourselves. Above all it was a time to get away from surface symptoms and to dig down to basic causes; and then to bring these causes into the light and to courageously proclaim them, knowing that the truth will at last prevail.

Herbert S. Houston

"There is so much marching and counter-marching on this question of our relation to the world," said Houston, "that often it is hard to know which way America is really moving. Consider two recent events. When Edward Bok offered his peace prize of $100,000 the other day. America's deep understanding of her human and economic stake in peace was shown in a nation-wide response. This great award for the best plan to secure American co-operation in establishing peace quickened an interest that this country has a ways had. And yet, at the very time that this interest was being stirred to fresh action, other signs appeared that seemed to show, at first glance, that America was on a back track to self-sufficiency and even to isolation.

Minnesota Election Evidence

"This was shown in the Minnesota election. When a normal Republican state like Minnesota gives a majority of 80,000 for Magnus Johnson, the former labor candidate for the senate, it is clear that some new and powerful forces are at work. The farmers are painfully conscious of the results, but are strangely confused as to what these forces really are. They know the prices of grain have dropped below the cost of production, but they are in doubt as to the reasons why. But they have no doubts about such hard facts as these—the things they buy are at high price levels while the things they sell are at very low levels. So they march to the ballot boxes and cast hundreds of thousands of votes of sheer protest—against what is not quite clear, but manifestly they are votes against conditions as they are.

"Dangerous in a Democracy."

"Now, a situation such as this is one of the most dangerous that can arise in a democracy. It is a situation of profound unrest and honest protest without a clear understanding of the causes that have produced it. Already the air is full of cries that America must come first and Europe last, that membership in the World Court must be side-tracked as a present issue and joining the League of Nations wholly forgotten. In their places must come domestic questions—better marketing methods, cheaper farm credits, lower transportation costs. And beyond doubt improvement must come in all these.

"But, even if great improvement comes, and comes quickly, the deep underlying cause of present agricultural conditions will not be touched. That cause is the weakened buying power of Europe, where our agricultural surplus is sold. What, I ask, will the saving of a few cents in the cost of selling a bushel of wheat or in shipping it to markets avail, if there is no buying power in the market when the wheat arrives?

Decision of Conference

"This whole matter was considered with the greatest thoroughness at the Farm Conference called by President Harding two years ago. And the conclusion on which all agreed was that a restored agriculture required a restored Europe. What was true then is true today.

"What is true in regard to our farmers' stakes in Europs is true with reference to the country as a whole. Eleven thousand bankers saw this last September in their great convention in New York, when they declared that an affirmative foreign policy without further delay was essential, and that this policy should state the conditions under which America would be willing to co-operate with other countries in rebuilding Europe and in establishing peace in the world. These bankers were looking at this question not as a foreign question, but as an American question. They asked the government to state on what basis we would help restore peace in our own interest.

"Isn't it true, therefore, that if we have such a great economic stake in Europe we should be prompted to consider the best means of restoring peace because of this stake? And this quite apart from the great human and spiritual questions involved."

Adventures of Billy Whiskers

By Frances Trego Montgomery

Billy and Nannie had seen the cows being milked by the milking machines and had been chased out of the cow house by one of the men. They went to see the doves and chickens next.

Presently they reached an open door and walked through. Seeing no one, they kept on straight ahead and soon found themselves in the place where the pigeons were kept. But they did not look attractive to Nannie, as their cages had scrubbed the ends off their feathers, and they looked dirty. The tumblers just sat on their feed boxes or perches and looked sleepy and disgusted with life.

"Oh, I am so disappointed! I thought I was going to see them in a big yard, eating, flying, strutting around and tumbling from the sky. Don't let us stop to see the chickens. We can see chickens anywhere."

But, just as they were passing through the door, they heard a queer noise overhead like the muffled crow of a rooster. Look where they would, however, they could see no fowl. Then they heard a pecking as if on a box, and again that faint crow.

"Well, it beats me where that crow comes from," said Billy. And he began to look up the rafters and along the walls, but no rooster could he see for all his efforts.

"Billy, look in that glass box beside you!" Nannie presently exclaimed.

Billy turned his head and looked, but saw nothing but a coil of rooster's tail feathers lying in a ring on the floor.

"I don't see anything, Nan."

"Don't you? Look higher up, away above your head, in the top of the box."

Billy did so, and what do you think he saw but a thin little rooster sitting on a perch facing a tiny window high up in the box that had the glass sides, sitting there as if a stuffed fowl

But the marvelous thing about him was that he had a tail ten and a half feet long and was put in this box with glass sides to show it off. The thing that seemed so cruel to Nannie was that this box was so narrow that he could not fly down on the floor or turn around, but had to sit in just the one position facing the little window all day.

"I think it is too cruel for anything to shut any live thing up like that!" exclaimed Nannie indignantly. "Let us butt the glass in so he can escape."

(Do you suppose they did butt it in? Tomorrow's story will tell.)

The street car conductor's change was running short. A young mother with her baby in her lap handed him a half dollar.

Conductor: "Is that the smallest you've got?"

Young mother: "Well, I've only been married a year!"—Kasper (Stockholm).

Dinner Stories

Little Johnnie, aged six, had been to church and had displayed more than usual interest in the sermon, in which the origin of Eve had been dwelt on at some length, recites Tit-Bits.

On his return from service, there being guests at dinner, he had also displayed a good deal of interest in the eatables, especially the pie and cakes.

Some time afterward, being missed, he was found sitting quietly in a corner with his hands pressed tightly over his ribs and an expression of awful anxiety on his face.

"Why, what on earth is the matter?" asked his mother in alarm.

"Mama, I'm afraid I'm going to have a wife," little Johnnie replied.

About 79 per cent of the farm houses in rural United States still use kerosene lamps.

10 Years Ago Today

From Evening News Files

Over Mt. Verdugo is rolling vast clouds of smoke and telephone calls for help are being sent in from Little Landers, Sunland and other points in the valley. Men are being marshaled in Glendale to go and help the people of the valley to control the fire.

The deal which the Elks' club of Glendale has had under advisement for some time past regarding the acquisition of four lots on Sixth street for the purpose of holding them until such time that the club will desire to build a clubhouse thereon has been closed. The lots extend 200 feet along Sixth street beginning 116 feet east of Brand boulevard and extending to the Sixth Street school grounds. The price for the four lots was $5000.

Movement is now under way for a petition requesting that Riverdale drive be paved.

The boys' quartet of Glendale, which is composed of Tom Furst Leo Goode, Percy McIntyre and Donald Goode, have volunteered their talent for the Tuesday Afternoon Club Carnival of Nations.

It will soon be time for the three "F"'—Fall, Fuel and Flu.

FIRPO MEETS DEMPSEY IN TITLE BOUT TONIGHT

HEAVIES TO BOX FIFTEEN ROUNDS IN GOTHAM RING

Champion Is Favored to Win Decision in Battle With Argentinian

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Luis Angel Firpo, hairy, human bullock from the Argentine, with the appearance of a berserk fanatic, and Jack Dempsey, native-born American, as pleasing to the eye as a sculptured Greek and every inch a champion, will face one another tonight across the extended left glove with the heavyweight championship of the world hanging in the balance.

The bout is scheduled to go fifteen rounds to an official decision, but only an ill-formed moron can look for such a conclusion. One or the other of these worthy specimens, seemingly, must go down for the doleful ten.

It is a meeting of a primitive man and the perfect type of modern athlete; the former a crude, vicious, wild-eyed fighter of the jungles, the latter lithe, cool-eyed and utterly without mercy when the "kill" is before him. He has all the advantages given to modern civilization plus the savagery of a born fighter. He should win.

Intrigues Popular Fancy

The setting for the fight will be laid in the spacious Polo grounds, and when the principals, stark in the artificial sunlight of huge lamps, step out from their corners between 80,000 and 90,000 spectators will grace the occasion. It has been taken for granted that Dempsey will win with almost undue haste, yet so popular is the flying fist that the event is likely to set a new world's record for fistic attendance.

Firpo holds an advantage in weight and strength. He has no other. He is meeting his superior in point of boxing skill, hitting accuracy, experience and, perhaps, in intelligence. Everything points to a quick victory for the champion, and the betting has conformed accordingly. Odds of less than 1 to 2 on Firpo have been laughed out of countenance on Broadway.

Yet there is something about the extremely unorthodox foreigner that has commanded attention and even respect. He has tremendous power in his right hand, and even the most partisan Dempsey man can do no less than concede that a punch on the button from this hand will mean the end of the champion. This is a long shot, true enough, but quite playable from the gambler's standpoint.

It is the same punch that dropped Herman, McCann, Brennan, McAuliffe and Willard. It is the punch that qualified Firpo for his fling at the championship. It is the punch that may win him the title or a bed in a nearby hospital. If he misses one of those bar-room swings and fails to cover adequately, Dempsey will knock his head back across the equator, and friends of the deceased will be asked to kindly omit flowers.

The possibility that Firpo, by some whimsy of fate, might land has proved a great attraction to the ghouls and volunteer pall-bearers, always ready to bear the old champion to his final resting place, will not be lacking if Dempsey loses. If not, they will be equally available to chortle over the resounding crash that will mark the fall of the contender.

The latter's great chance lies in the fact that Dempsey has fought only once in two years, and on that occasion looked none too plausible in failing to dispose of Tom Gibbons, a light heavyweight, within fifteen rounds. But, if Dempsey is the same man who beat Fulton with a punch and dropped Willard seven times at Toledo, the Argentine would seem to have slightly less than no chance at all.

Firpo's complex personality—his ill-fitting clothes, grave yet beetling eye, peculiar methods of training, and the fact that he is the first challenger to come up from South America—has served to whet the public appetite. His scheme of conditioning may be reckoned as something of a liability.

While Dempsey was going through the daily ritual of training at White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., Firpo spent an alarming length of time in barnstorming, and then went to Atlantic City to be trained by a mouthpiece, one Horatic Angel Lavelle, speaking for one Felix Bunge, stationed in Buenos Ayres, the conditioning being determined by daily cable messages. Laugh, now, and show your ignorance.

New Enthusiasts Out For Football Squads

Football at Glendale Union High school is the paramount sport just now, students thronging to the fields in the afternoon to watch the practice. Although no scrimmage has taken place so far, the would-be pigskin heroes are being drilled right and left with favorable results.

Several new enthusiasts have donned suits and are trying hard to make the teams. Pomeroy, Weaver, Ellerbrook, Offutt, and Zaun are new varsity aspirants who are proving to be good material. In Zaun, Coach Hayhurst has found a dandy center and has thus ended his troubles along that line.

P. Thompson, Wernette, Neel, Packard, Paulowsky, Stillwell, Blair, Heideman, Swaney, Lee, Townsend, Moore, Curtis, and Sturgis are new additions to the lightweight squad.

THE PENNANT RACE

Although the Giants did not play yesterday they still retained their lead of five games over the Pirates when the latter split even in a double-header with Brooklyn. The Reds, however, cut down the Giants' lead half a game and are now 5½ games back of New York.

If the Giants win ten of their remaining 16 games, the Pirates must win 17 of their 18 games and the Reds all of their remaining 17 contests to beat them out. If this should occur the Pirates and Reds would be tied for the pennant with 97 victories and 57 defeats.

The Yankees raised their lead to 15½ games and now need only eight victories of their remaining 20 games to clinch the pennant even if the Indians win all of their remaining 25 games.

TAGGING THE BASES

Babe Ruth smashed out his 36th homer and the Yanks rode rough-shod over the White Sox, 9 to 5.

The Pirates lost an opportunity to cut down the Giants' lead when they split a doubleheader with the Dodgers. The Dodgers won the first by a ninth inning rally, but Cooper southpawed them to death in the second.

Uhle's wildness cost the Indians the game with the Red Sox 9 to 8.

The Athletics won a hard-fought, 11-inning contest from the Browns, 3 to 2.

SIMPLE DEVICE

To deflate an automobile tire a simple device has been invented to be clamped to a valve stem to press the spring open.

A projectile shot from the largest gun is not going to hit the mark unless well aimed.

MOUNTAIN GRID WARRIORS READY FOR HARD GAMES

Football Again Advances to Center of Stage With Season's Opening

By J. RANKIN NORVELL,
For International News Service

DENVER, Sept. 14.—Football, that particular part of the sports category known as the academic version of warfare, is moving into the center of the sports spotlight in the Rocky Mountain region.

The gridiron season opens September 29 with games between the University of Wyoming and the Colorado Aggies, the Colorado Normal School and the Colorado College, and Montana State against Brigham Young University.

Grid candidates of most of the Rocky Mountain conference colleges have been summoned, a majority reporting for preliminary practice September 10.

In Colorado, New Mexico, Wyoming, Montana and Utah the fury of attackers this Fall probably will be concentrated on the University of Utah and the Utah Agricultural College. The latter won the conference championship in 1921, and the former annexed the same prize in 1922, hence other schools of the conference are arising in the glory of their moleskins to declare "This shall not be again!"

Dope points to "Boulder," the University of Colorado, as the most probable Waterloo of Utah football warriors. The big clash of the season comes November 17, when the Silver and Gold journeys to Salt Lake City to face the Crimson.

The Utah Aggies battle the Colorado Aggies October 27 in what should be a crucial game.

Colorado's Ace

The University of Colorado has as its chief asset one Art Quinlan, captain and quarterback. He is a constant menace and threat to the opposition and, practically single-handed, whipped the powerful 1922 Colorado Aggie machine. He is the type of player who can do practically anything required on the gridiron, and do it exceptionally well.

Other colleges whose prospects for good teams are ninety per cent good are the Colorado Aggies and Denver university. The latter school, with a powerful aggregation last year, went to pieces before the Colorado Aggies (27-6) with a gasp whose echo is not yet ended.

Mormons Strong

Coach Alvin Twitchell, of Brigham Young university, recently took the coaching course under Knute Rockne, Notre Dame, and backers of the smaller Mormon college are expecting a good eleven to be placed on the field.

The University of Wyoming, under Coach Corbett and Captain Wittenbracker, did not cross the goal line of any opposing team last year until the last game of the season against Brigham Young. Wyoming, a new school in the conference, may develop. The Colorado School of Mines has little.

The University of New Mexico, the Colorado Normal college and the Colorado State Teachers are Class B teams, in the conference on probation, and games won or lost by them have no bearing on the conference standing.

Reasons for Buttons On Sleeves Are Told

Why are there buttons on men's coat sleeves? In the United States these buttons are purely for ornament, and extending from each is an imitation buttonhole. In England the tailor actually works the buttonholes, and the opening of the sleeve has a flap and is really buttoned. A Kansas City tailor asserts that the fashion, a century or two ago, of having long cuffs of lace was partly responsible. When one was doing anything but making bows, the lace cuffs interfered and the tailors put the buttons on to fasten the cuffs back. Another theory is that a certain English king, having equipped his soldiers' uniforms with beautiful lace cuffs, found the men were using the latter for handkerchiefs and ordered buttons to be put on the sleeves so that the soldiers would scratch their noses if they attempted to make this improper use of the lace. When the lace disappeared, the tailors forgot to take the buttons off, and they have remained ever since.

Motor to San Diego To Witness Eclipse

An account of witnessing the recent eclipse from Balboa park, in San Diego, is given by Mrs. William J. Bradley of La Crescenta, who, with Mr. Bradley, Mrs. Delia Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Thompson and daughter, Lucile, and Mr. Hawes and son, Percy, of Glendale, motored to San Diego for over Monday of this week.

Mrs. Bradley writes: "As the moment of totality drew near, anxiety was in every heart lest the drifting clouds should obscure the view, but, at the supreme instant, an unseen hand parted the curtain of mist, and the eclipse was clearly seen; first, the complete obscuration of the sun, then the glorious colors circling the edge, blue, then red, surrounded far out by the large corona, like an immense circular rainbow.

"The sight was one never to be forgotten by those fortunate enough to observe it. And one was profoundly impressed with the thought that no chance rules the universe."

SCIENCE REVEALS DISASTER CAUSE

Moon Comes Between Sun And Earth, Deflecting Solar Magnetic Rays

their low rate of pulsation, they are invisible.

The compound rays (basis of organic life), when impinging on other classes of molecules, such as nitrogen or any other planetary substance, increase their pulsative velocity and thereby exhibit light effects—intensity depending on force of resistance offered—and may or may not enter into combination, the result depending on circumstances and chance conditions of environment.

Thus our sun gives heat and light when its compound rays meet with our atmosphere, while earth is carried in its orbit around the sun by the ever-present solar magnetic lines of force. Miniature examples of this process may be observed by the use of a magnet and iron filings.

Under this line of conclusions, a true star is, in relative space, carried into position by the cohesive gravity of its elements and retained in an individual orbit by its original lines of magnetic force; while intervening stellar space is relatively occupied by the two types of primal elements that are in an extremely tenuous and elastic state in which their resistance to external motion is negligible. The typically characteristic, mathematically deduced figures of these elements, together with their limited power and transmorphic modifications respectively, lead to a tenable solution of the full round of natural phenomena.

Cites Manifestations

As, for example, a unit of oxygen under friction, heat, light or chemical action is, by force of its resistance toward the abnormal intensity of motion while in the presence of more or less attractive substances, found to have modified its normal figure and is then found to have acquired the properties that designate it an electron; or, according to circumstances, it may manifest as the X-ray, magneton, beta or a gamma emanation, as catalyzed and refracted by pulsating radium salts —flourine, chlorine, etc., while the mono-porus hydrogen unit may, under treatment, appear as any phase of carbon, lithium, silver, copper, tin, zinc, etc. Theory points to the properties of many of the so-called elements as binary variants of the several classes of possible combinations which have received specific planetary treatment and known as gold, radium, platinum, lead, uranium, etc.

Gives Prismatic Example

In prismatic experiments it will be noted that when the incident rays—solar light rays—are caused to impinge upon a prism whose plane diagonally cuts the penetrative interstices of the same, the rays are, by reason of their size and figure, unable to penetrate the glass and are therefore disorganized; the hydrogenous portion of the molecules are reflected while the magnetons, under unitary repulsion, in their effort toward penetrating the attractive prism, reduce the angle of their positive pole and are thus transmuted to electrons whose figure enables them to course the prism in paths determined by their mutual repulsion, and on their emergence from the same they are found to speed in lines determined by their mutual repulsion and the angle of the porus fields of the prism and exhibit color bands, shade and tints of which indicate the respective sizes or states; increasing in planar dimension as they pulsate from the infra-red rays—their minimum of size—through a mathematical ratio toward the maximum or invisible state; but change their figure at the sodium line and thus their noted change of chemical properties from this point on throughout the ultra-violet fields.

Repositories of Power

Thus oxygen units in the phase of electrons, when impinging on any substance from the prism, give, by virtue of a retardation of their pulsatory rate of vibration, an exhibition of their several periods and innumerable states of possible dilation from their contracted state of black; and as these two respectively unique types of primal elements indicate throughout the field of experimental research that they are geometrical as to figure, mathematical in their unitary as also in binary methods of motion and all modes of combination and found to be independent of a reagent, we may feel safe in predicting of them that in time it will be decided that they are the discontinuous vital elements of existent things, the repositories of material power and normally are afloat or buoyant in absolute space.

Rays Glance Off Moon

Applying this, the binary theory, to the phenomena covering the recent eclipse, it will be apparent that the before described binary solar-light rays when impinging on the dense and heated face of our moon will glance away from the rim of the same at an oblique angle and thus exhibit the shadow bands, as they have been termed, while during totality of the shadowed portion of earth's surface this same type of rays will be reflected at various angles determined by the spherical surface of the moon, and observers see not only the sun's photosphere but also the magnificent circles of prismatic hues surrounding the moon's rim and the color effects occasioned by the reflection, deflection and trans-interference of the solar-light rays.

From the foregoing conclusions it may be inferred that the density and constitution of our moon must, when in conjunction with earth and sun, interfere with the regularity of the solar magnetic lines of force and cause in some locations temporary terrestrial disturbances.

It also may be inferred that these same lines of magnetic force are the carriers of aerial messages and are more efficient at night when the atmosphere is approximately free of solar-light rays that interfere to some extent with the resistive pulsations of the magnetic rays that are amplified at the broadcasting stations.

GARDEN OF GODS SITE FOR PAGEANT

Equal Rights Fete Will Be Staged Near Colorado Springs

convention, held recently in Seneca Falls, N. Y.

In choosing the Garden of the Gods as the setting for the Colorado pageant Hazel MacKaye, pageant director of the Woman's party and probably one of the foremost woman pageant producers in the country, said:

"Only a noble idea is worthy of being interpreted in that awe-inspiring spot. But we who come with banners and garlands to celebrate this anniversary feel that we are bringing an ideal lofty enough even for that eternal garden spot—the ideal of equality for man and woman, complete justice to all the human race."

Equal Rights Battle

The celebration here, according to Miss Paul, is part of a national campaign for an amendment to the United States Constitution that shall read:

"Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction."

The Garden of the Gods pageant will be staged on a "magnificent scale," according to present plans. The program will include a processional of 500 young women carrying the purple, white and gold banners of the Woman's party. Two tableaux will be presented—one showing the equal rights convention of 1848, with Lucretia Mott, in Quaker gray, on the stage, accompanied by Elizabeth Cady Stanton, in hoop skirts, with her long auburn curls.

Lucretia Mott was the founder of the entire feminist movement, and Elizabeth Cady Stanton was the second of the great trio of leaders who launched the equal rights movement and kept it alive for half a century.

Women's Demands

Around these two figures will assemble, in reproduction, the entire 1848 convention. Upon the giant rock behind the assemblage will appear in letters of gold the "Declaration of Sentiments" adopted by that convention, demanding for women equal rights in the franchise, in the law, in the home, in the professions and in every other field of endeavor.

At this point Susan B. Anthony, the third great feminist pioneer of the United States, appears and is greeted by her coworkers.

The second tableau will show the pioneer women of Colorado—Helen Hunt Jackson, the novelist; Dr. Alida Avery, of Denver, the first woman physician in the state; the Rev. Mrs. Wilkes, of Colorado Springs, a Unitarian minister in territorial days; Mrs. William Palmer, who taught the first school in Colorado Springs; Sarah Platt Decker, Anette Peavey and others.

Community Help

In preparing for the Garden of the Gods pageant the Woman's party has had the enthusiastic cooperation of the entire community. The women's committee of fifty includes all of the leading women of Colorado Springs and many of the most prominent women in the state. Among them are: Mrs. Olive H. Shoup, wife of ex-Governor Shoup; Mrs. Spencer Penrose, sister-in-law of the late Senator Penrose; Mrs. L. A. Miller, formerly president of the State Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. J. R. Friedline, former president of the State Branch of the American Association of University Women; Mrs. A. S. Conwell, president of the North End Women's Christian Temperance Union; Mrs. Henry C. Graves, president of the Business and Professional Women's club; Mrs. C. H. Auld, president of the Women's club, and many others.

Robert Reid and Birger Sandzen, internationally known artists, and Miss Louise Strang, director of the Broadmoor Art Academy, are helping Miss MacKaye in her pageant plans.

The Chamber of Commerce has named a committee of five to cooperate with the women's committee ,and the City Council has voted $150 toward the support of the pageant. A committee in Denver is arranging a delegation of two hundred women to the pageant and to the state convention of the woman's party, which will be held on the day preceding the pageant. Other delegations will come from Pueblo, Boulder and other neighboring cities.

Scottish Golf Craze Spreads to Cow Lots

The Earl of Balfour's speech on the modern growth in the popularity of golf has brought the suggestion from Edinburgh that his own taking up of the game when he was most prominent had something to do with it. His belief that the increase was only in England is disputed, it being held that in Scotland forty years ago the game was confined to a few places along the Fife, Forfar and Ayrshire coast, while now the craze is so general there that every village "that can lay hold of a bit of cow's grass' turns it into a golf course.
